

HAILE SELASSIE

Ex-Emperor Haile Selassie Dead

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — Former Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia is dead at 83, Radio Ethiopia said today. The broadcast said Selassie was found dead in bed this morning by a servant.

Selassie ruled Ethiopia for 57 years with the title of "King of Kings, Elect of God, Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah" until a military coup deposed him in 1974.

Selassie survived the invasion forces of Benito Mussolini, a revolt by his palace guard and the decolonization of Africa, but in the end he was deposed in a coup by youthful military officers who overthrew the government in February, 1974.

The officers, upset with widespread poverty in the East African nation and reports of corruption among the Emperor's friends and advisers, already had whittled away most of his almost unlimited powers.

In September, they nationalized his 24-room palace and placed him under house arrest and he was never seen in public again although there were reports he was undergoing medical treatments for ailments of old age.

Two months later the military government executed 59 former civilian and military officials, including Selassie's grandson, the head of the ruling military council who deposed him and two ex-prime ministers.

The diminutive ex-monarch, who ruled Ethiopia until he was deposed by a military coup Sept. 12, 1974, had been in ill health in recent months.

Last May the military government announced he had undergone surgery for a ailment of the urinary tract.

The radio announcement today said Selassie died of a prostate gland disorder.

Selassie was born July 23, 1892.

An official statement read over the radio said the former emperor, apparently realizing the end was near, asked several days ago that his family be permitted to visit him at the Menelik palace on a hill overlooking Addis Ababa. He had been detained at the palace since his overthrow.

The radio said his daughter, Princess Tenagne Work, who has also been in detention since the coup, was brought to him Tuesday along with his granddaughter.

Selassie weighed only 100 pounds and he stood but five feet four inches tall. But his stature among world leaders over his five decades of rule was much greater. His figure was seen at state functions worldwide, the black-browed, weather-beaten face above a chest of medals on his khaki tunic.

Perhaps the most memorable of those appearances was at the defunct League of Nations in Geneva in the 1930s when he appealed unsuccessfully for the help of the free world in ending the Italian aggression in Ethiopia. Another was at the funeral of President John F. Kennedy where he followed the funeral procession, dwarfed by the towering figure of Gen. Charles de Gaulle and other world leaders.

The Ethiopian people reacted calmly to news of the passing of the man once known as the Conquering Lion of Judah.

Some old people wept but young people seemed indifferent. "He is an old man and old men eventually die," one young man said in a street corner interview. Asked if that was his only reaction to the death of a man who ruled the country for so many years, he replied, "But he is not emperor now and is only a shimagalie (old man)."

Ras Tafari Haile Selassie was born July 23, 1892, of a line traced back to King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba. His father was a provincial governor and his mother a noblewoman.

In July 1911, Selassie married Weizoro Menen, granddaughter of Negus (King) Mikael. They had seven children of whom only one son and one daughter are living. His wife died in 1962 at the age of 71.

Selassie became regent in 1916 and ascended the throne when Empress Zeoditu died in 1930. Within a year he gave Ethiopia a new democratic constitution.

When Italy invaded his country in 1936, the bearded leader appealed for help from the League of Nations at Geneva. He received only sympathy and exiled himself to England to carry on the struggle of his people. In 1941, he re-entered Addis Ababa triumphant after the Allied forces routed the Fascist armies of Mussolini.

All Major Issues Settled

One Clause Blocking Mideast Pact

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UPI) — Only the wording of a single clause is blocking Egyptian-Israeli agreement on an interim peace settlement in the Sinai desert, an aide to President Anwar Sadat said today.

Sadat's press secretary Tahsin Bashir said the clause will say that the Sinai troop disengagement agreement is only one of a series of Arab-Israeli agreements needed to bring permanent peace to the Middle East.

Bashir and other Egyptian officials told reporters they believe the clause will be agreed upon and that the settlement will be initiated by Egypt Friday, or at least this weekend.

All three of Cairo's big newspapers — Al Akhbar, Al Ahram and Al Gomhouria — said today the pact would be initiated Friday and formally signed next month in Geneva. Bashir called these reports "premature."

Egyptian sources said military commanders and not political leaders will initial the disengagement pact and then sign it formally later in Geneva.

Kissinger was flying to Jerusalem later today and returning to Alexandria Thursday night or Friday morning the Egyptians said.

A Sadat aide said all major issues have been settled and only the wording of the clause was causing trouble. He said the clause would specify that such problems as control of Jerusalem, the future of the West Bank of the Jordan and the fate of Palestinian refugees must be handled in future settlements.

Diplomats said Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin probably would issue statements when Kissinger gets the settlement document initiated. They said Sadat might then announce that Israeli cargoes — but not Israeli ships — could pass through the Suez Canal.

They said such explosive issues as Cairo lessening or dropping its economic blockade and propaganda attacks against Israel probably would be handled — if at all — in separate papers in the form of Egyptian letters to the United States.

"When and if Dr. Kissinger will bring back an affirmative reply, if that is done, then the road will be open to an agreement," Bashir told reporters.

"The big issues of substance have been agreed upon," Bashir said. "But there must be clarification of some of the clauses in the agreement. I am optimistic that the agreement will be signed."

He stressed the importance of Egypt getting Israeli agreement to the wording of the agreement as sought by Sadat.

The reports came after diplomatic sources in Jerusalem revealed approval of the treaty's major provisions and the Israeli government disclosed some of the key details.

But Kissinger refused to comment on the widespread reports. He would only tell reporters he was at work trying to negotiate the wording of the final document.

"We are working on the documentation and it's a hell of a lot of work," a senior U.S. official on the Kissinger shuttle plane said.

Kissinger conferred with Egyptian leaders in Alexandria this morning before flying to Jerusalem for discussions with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

A senior official aboard the Kissinger plane said the secretary's 10th peace mission to the Middle East would be finished by Saturday at the latest.

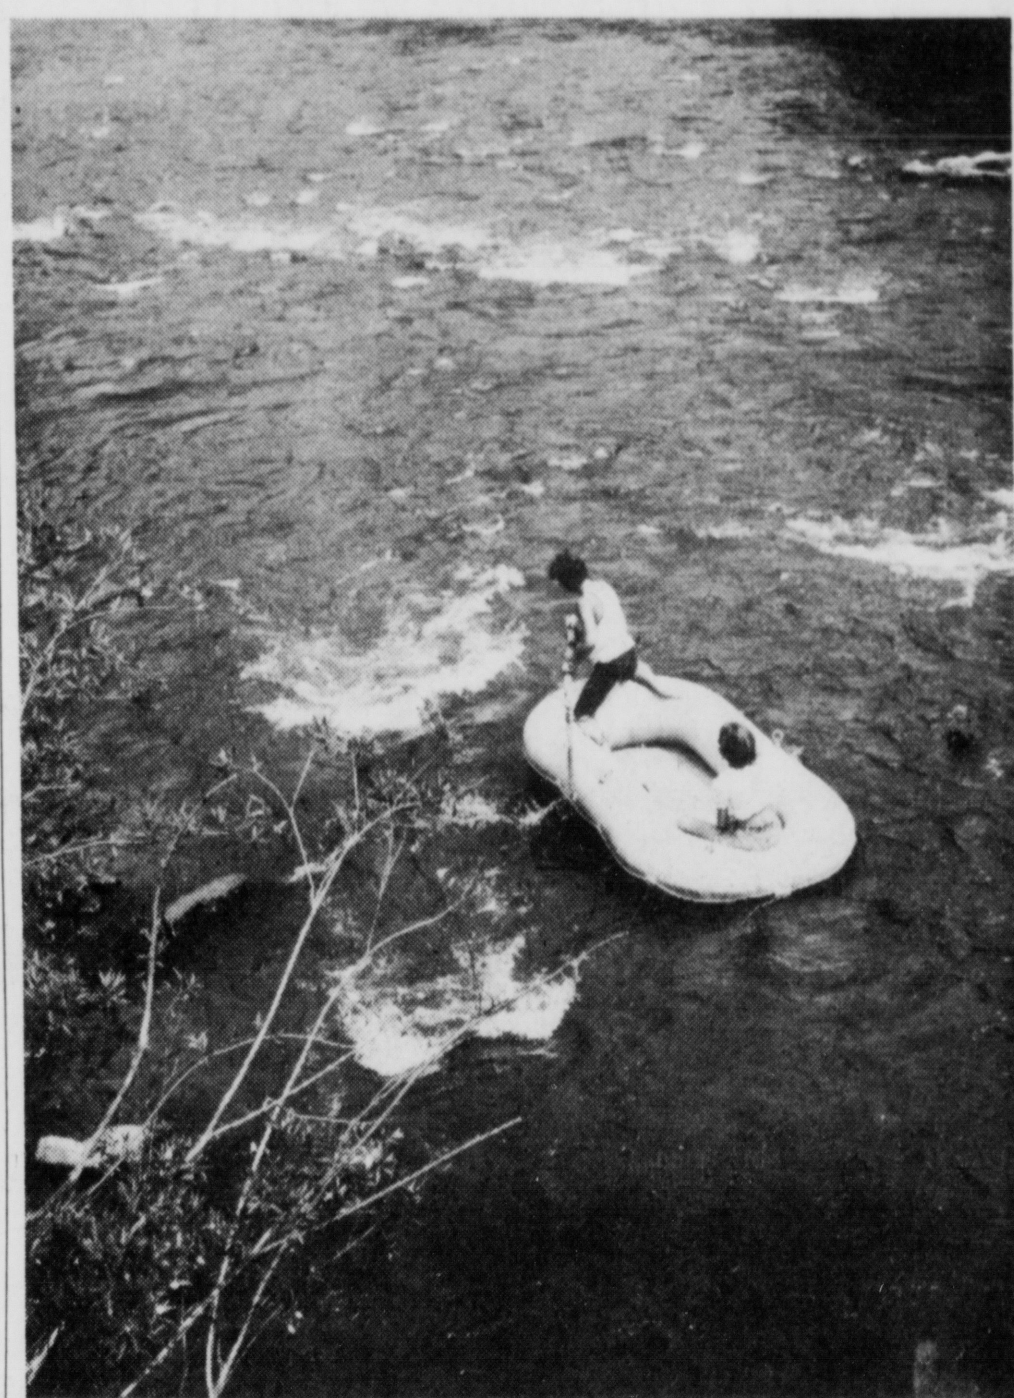

Diplomats in Jerusalem and Alexandria have reported the details of treaty provisions providing for Israeli pullbacks and Egyptian advances in the Sinai Desert.

But the diplomats have refused to reveal the details of what were believed to be accompanying secret documents outlining Egyptian political concessions to Israel.

The private Egyptian promises, to be made in diplomatic letters to Israel and the United States, were believed to ease the Arab trade boycott, antIsraeli propaganda and moves to expel the Jewish state from the United Nations.

Kissinger flew to Egypt late Tuesday to give President Anwar Sadat an Israeli-approved draft of the treaty for final consideration.

Egyptian sources said Sadat put some final Egyptian touches into the Israeli version. "The agreement has reached the drafting stage," one source said. "It seems only the wording is a problem."

Koenig Opposes Charter Water Plans

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

The Water Department will be the battleground for charter revision— circa 1975—with no less a personage than Mayor Francis R. Koenig coming out in favor of the water board and opposed to the charter commission's recommendations for it.

Explaining that he has not had the opportunity to completely review the 35-page document finalized only last Friday, Koenig said he cannot support charter revision commission recommendations that would in effect make the Water Department "just like any other" department of government with the mayor and Common Council in direct control.

"I would say it's a complete separate function," Koenig said of the water department, "and they've been functioning rather well."

(It should be explained that the water board is for almost all intents and purposes, a government in its own right. Its budgets are not subject to review other than by its own board which is appointed by the mayor and it has the power to establish water rates as it sees fit. The board is governed by its own rules and by-laws, none of which are subject to Common Council review. The board comes to the council only when it seeks bonding authority. Those instances have been relatively rare.)

The Charter Revision Commission made two recommendations affecting the Water Department. The first suggests that the mayor be installed as president (and a voting member) of the board. The second suggests that the Board come to the Council for approval of its water rates.

The charter Commission has been particularly adamant on review of water rates, looking on it as an issue of "accountability." The commission views water rates as a form of tax on the populace which should only be levied with the advice and consent of elected officials.

The mayor has apparently taken the position of rejecting the concept but approving its components. He says he has no objection to being president of the water board. He is now listed as an "ex-officio" member. He agrees that water rates should be reviewed by the council. Inherent in that is budget review.

But yet, the mayor can also say, "I feel the way they're operating now is beneficial to the city. There's no need to make changes there."

The mayor may clarify his views at tomorrow night's 7:30 public hearing at city hall, either in writing or in person.

The charter will be submitted to public referendum in November.

$100 Thousand to Study Sex

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire said today the government is spending $121,000 to sexually arouse male college students with pornographic movies. The purpose of the project is to study the effects of marijuana.

Proxmire called the project "one of the most shocking examples of the 'federal love machine' I have ever found." It is conducted by the National Institute on Drug Abuse at Southern Illinois University.

The Wisconsin Democrat said the grant was one of several NIDA projects costing more than $1 million that also study marijuana effects on hypnosis and facial expressions, marijuana use among the Zulus and the use of a drug in North Yemen.

Calling the studies "outrageous," Proxmire said NIDA "has the responsibility for fighting one of the most serious and tragic social problems in our society, but where in heaven's name are their priorities?"

Dr. Robert Dupont, director of the agency, said the studies were making "an important contribution to our better understanding of drug abuse and how to prevent it."

A spokesman for the agency said about 60 adult males are part of the research project in which they are given marijuana and then sexually aroused.

"We show them erotic movies and then measure their sexual response", the spokesman said.

First Replacement Step For Phoenicia Bridge

By Lynn Mulvaney

KINGSTON

The go-ahead has been given on the long awaited building of the Phoenicia Bridge which dropped into the Esopus Creek last February causing economic hardship to Phoenicia businessmen.

Legislator Chariman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8) and Eugene K. Noe (R-Dist. 8), chairman of the Bridge and Highway Committee, said surveyors and engineers were on the scene early this week conducting a preliminary survey in order to arrive at a cost estimate. Noe gave the go-ahead to the surveyors last week and anticipates that Thomas Wickman, civil engineer will have the cost estimate within 10 days.

Preliminary estimates set the price in the neighborhood of $450,000 and it is anticipated that the Ulster County Legislature will act on appropriating the money at its Sept. 11 meeting.

"The money is there," Savago said, referring to $1 million already authorized in bonds for bridge and highway construction and repair, expressing confidence that the county board will approve the spending of the necessary funds for the Phoenicia Bridge construction.

Commenting on the delays in getting the project underway, Savago said the county has been patiently waiting for State Transportation

Commissioner Raymond T. Schuler's promised recommendation concerning where Route 214 which crossed the bridge is to be realigned.

Agreeing, Noe said "You just don't spend $450,000 without knowing where the bridge should be put."

Schuler has failed however to reply to the county's request for results of the state study and the county has decided to move ahead rebuilding the bridge exactly where it was.

Savago also took issue with Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey's (D-101st Dist.) statement Tuesday that he was stalling on the bridge issue and passing the buck. "As soon as we know how much money is needed, we will appropriate it," Savago said, at the same time accusing Hinchey of "trying to take the limelight off his dismal performance in Albany."

Savago suggested that Hinchey "pay more attention to spiraling taxes forced on the people of Ulster County by the Democratically controlled assembly and Democratic governor and don't worry about the Republican-controlled County Legislature which has reduced taxes the last five out of seven years."

"I suggest that Hinchey take a lesson in how to save money instead of voting tax increases and contributing to utter chaos in the state," he concluded.

POUGHKEEPSIE

An intensive, four-week undercover investigation by the Dutchess County Sheriff's Department led to the arrest Tuesday of four men who allegedly ripped off a Town of LaGrange lumber company to the tune of more than $100,000 over a two-year period.

Dutchess County Sheriff Lawrence Quinlan said today that the four were conspirators in an elaborate scheme that involved the theft—piece by piece and day by day—of a wide assortment of building materials and lumber.

Quinlan said the mastermind behind the plot was 46-year-old Edward Johnson of Cross Road in LaGrangeville. Johnson was committed to the Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bail Tuesday on a charge of second degree grand larceny.

The Sheriff said that Johnson, a private builder, paid three yardmen at the lumber company relatively small amounts of cash on a regular basis. In exchange for the money, police allege that the three pilfered a variety of building products from the lumber yard, and then transported the materials to a secluded piece of property owned by Johnson.

The alleged thefts occurred at the H.G. Page Co. "The place is such a sprawling operation," said Quinlan, "that the workers could take just about anything they wanted without the owners even finding out."

But company officials suspected that something was amiss in late July and contacted the Sheriff personally. He headed the four-week probe that culminated in Tuesday's arrests.

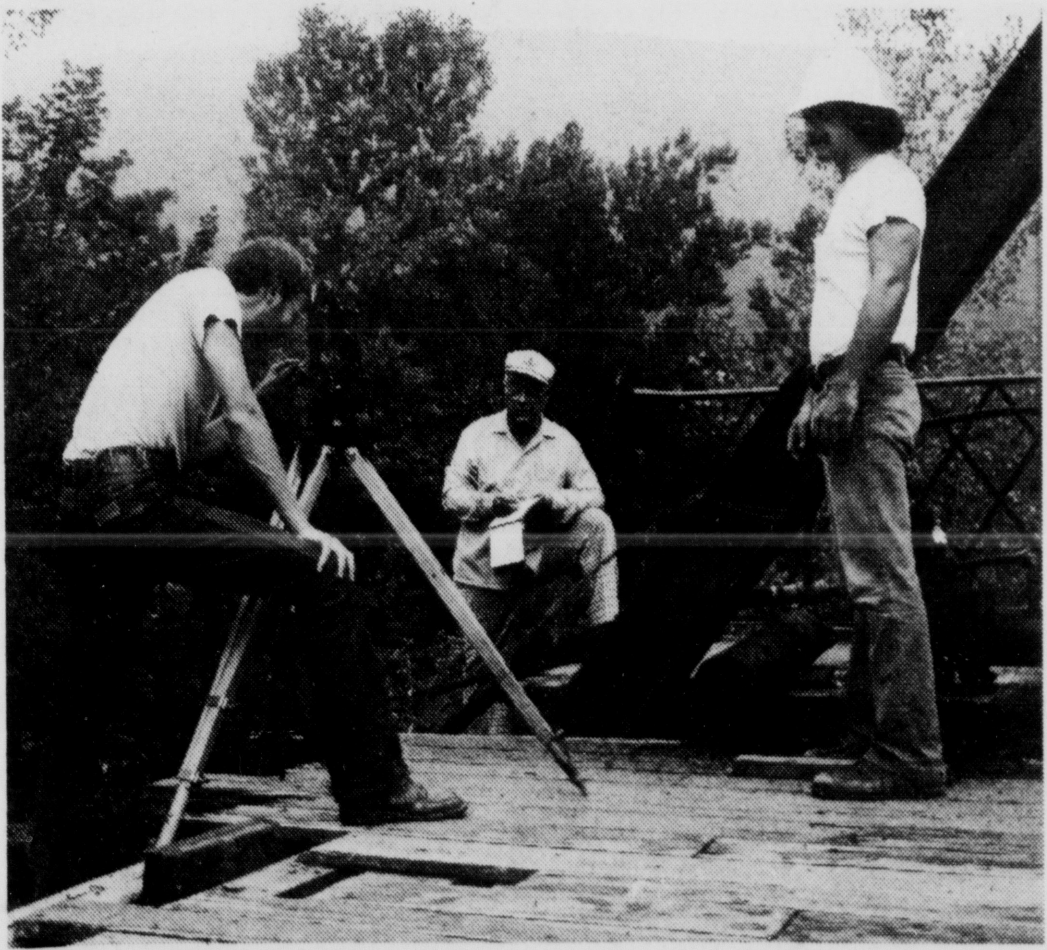

Quinlan said the thefts had been taking place since September of 1973.

The three yardmen arrested Tuesday along with Johnson were identified as Robert Connors, 43, of New Hamburg; Gerald Way, 36, of 19 Beechwood Terrace, Poughkeepsie and Carl Barker, 26, of Hopewill Junction. All three were arraigned on charges of second degree grand larceny, but were released in their own custody because, according to Quinlan, they assisted police in the investigation.

The four are scheduled for a preliminary hearing at a later date.

Board Seeks Report of Engineers

NEW PALTZ
The New Paltz Village Board in a brief meeting Monday night voted to have village engineers determine if the water main serving Plains Road can be cleaned out rather than replaced.

Village Clerk Robert Remsnyder said that the board will take no action until the engineering report is received. At its July 28 meeting, the board voted 4-1 (with Trustee Judith Fractenberg opposed) to have Brinnier and Larios, village engineers, prepare specifications for a new eight-inch water main along Plains Road between Main Street and the village limits. Trustee John Logan said that the existing four-inch main did not furnish enough fire protection for the 10 residences and one business firm along the road.

Following a public hearing, the board voted to rescind the local law naming Grove Street and North Oakwood Terrace as one-way streets. The action on Grove Street, one way on Sunday mornings, came at the request of the United Methodist Church, which said it created traffic problems for church members attending services.

The board received two bids on a 1939 American LaFrance ladder truck that became available for sale when the village recently purchased a new truck for the fire department. The bids, $325 from the Woodland Fire Department of Bullville and $40 from Robert J. Krajicek of New Paltz, were turned over to Trustee George Ackert the fire commissioner, for study.

The board, also voted to advertise for bids on sidewalks for the east side of South Chester Street.

Financing Plan Will Aid NYC

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor Abraham Beame has endorsed a plan that would strip him of much of his control over New York City's fiscal affairs and agreed to share his budgetary powers with the governor and the state controller. But he insisted, "We're not giving up home rule."

A complicated new financing program was expected to prevent a default by New York City in September, when the city must pay $896 million in operating expenses as well as principal and interest on notes falling due.

Sources said the agreement could involve an initial $1 billion appropriation by the legislature — to be convened in special session by Gov. Hugh Carey, perhaps as early as next week — to meet the city's September bills.

"I am completely in accord with this plan," Beame said Tuesday. "It represents state financial involvement in the City of New York. I think it is a good omen for the city."

Despite the concessions Beame agreed to make — concessions he dismissed out of hand a month ago — he denied he had given up the traditionally autonomous mayoral control over the city's expense budget.

"We're not giving up home rule. There's absolutely nothing in the plan that doesn't exist today," Beame said.

The agreement calls for Carey to seek authority to create what amounts to a state board of overseers, made up of the mayor, the governor and Controller Arthur Levitt, who enjoys a national reputation for fiscal conservatism and integrity.

The panel would be responsible for preparing accurate revenue estimates for New York City and setting a spending ceiling which the city could not legally exceed. One of the first tasks of the board, Carey said, would be to come up with an accurate determination of the city's deficit, currently estimated at between $2.8 billion and $3.1 billion.

Carey and Beame said the state would lend New York money by floating its own notes and bonds, which have been selling at an interest rate well below that charged the city.

In addition, they said, the Municipal Assistance Corp., created in June to sell $3 billion in long-term bonds for the city, would have its borrowing capacity extended to perhaps $5 billion so it could help repay the city's debts both to the state and the banks.

Finch Wins Dem Primary In Ole Miss

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Charles C. "Cliff" Finch, a $150,000 a year attorney, parlayed his campaign jobs as a grocery bagger and service station attendant into a smashing victory Tuesday as the Democratic nominee for governor.

Mississippi Democrats gave Finch, a "working man's candidate," the gubernatorial nomination in a primary runoff and chose Evelyn Gandy as the state's first woman candidate for lieutenant governor. Finch, from Batesville, crushed Lt. Gov. William F. Winter, who failed for the second time in a runoff for governor despite having beaten Finch soundly in the 1971 lieutenant governor's race.

The 48-year-old lawyer had trailed Winter by more than 30,000 votes in the first primary three weeks ago. But Finch caught the fancy of voters with a campaign that featured one-day-a-week jobs as a bulldozer, grocery bagger, lumberjack and service station attendant to meet the working man "on a one-to-one basis."

With almost 99 percent of the precincts reported, Finch had 426,274 votes, or 57.7 percent, to Winter's 312,152 votes, or 42.3 percent.

Finch will face Republican Gil Carmichael of Meridian and black independent Henry J. Kirksey of Jackson in the November general election.

An 'Obligation of Love'

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Through the night and all the next day, William Plachta watched over his wife's slow suicide, waiting for the overdose of pills she took to finish its work. She lost consciousness in an hour, then lingered in a slowly deepening coma.

It was 22 hours before he pulled the sheet over her face. He was arrested but the district attorney hesitated today in deciding whether he should be prosecuted.

A surgeon praised him for carrying out an "obligation of love."

Faced with a lingering death from terminal nerve degeneration, Francesca Plachta, 49, had planned her suicide with meticulous care, writing farewell letters weeks in advance and stockpiling pills by going short of pain killers. One note thanked her physician for prescribing a drug she could use to kill herself.

She had been suffering for two years from the nervous disease, which the Riverside county coroner said "would eventually be terminal," but only after gradually paralyzing her. Plachta told police she had had five spinal operations, Political observers said Carmichael could put up a stiff fight.

Miss Gandy, 54, the current state insurance commissioner, received almost 53 percent of the vote in beating State Treasurer Brad Dye. She will meet Laurel Mayor Bill Patrick, the GOP candidate, in the general election.

Winter took the defeat philosophically as he faced a tearful group of campaign workers.

was bedridden and had already lost the ability to walk and partial use of her left hand.

"The doctors said I could take her to a convalescent hospital but she didn't want to go to a home," he said.

"I could not let her get on like this," Plachta said after his arrest on suspicion of manslaughter.

"I don't know where I stand in all this, but I just didn't want to interfere with my wife's wishes to die."

Plachta, 64, owner of a camera store, was released on $2,500 bond.

District Attorney Byron Morton said he had not decided whether to file a criminal complaint against Plachta, and was waiting for the results of further police investigation.

Mrs. Plachta dictated to her husband several letters to friends over the past three weeks, telling them she would not see them again, police said. She thanked her doctors for increasing her dosage of pain killer and tranquilizer pills, saying she hoped she had saved enough "to do the job well."

The letter to the physicians ended: "Good-bye, rotten world."

Fatter Paychecks for Legislator Employees

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The paychecks of employees of the legislature will be a lot fatter on Sept. 3 — to the tune of a 3.5 percent pay raise retroactive to June 26.

The pay raises, amounting to up to $1,500 a year for some top aides, were explained by spokesmen for Assembly and Senate leaders Tuesday as an effort to maintain "parity" between legislative employees and other state workers.

Raises for Senate staffers will cost $135,000 on an annual basis. The Assembly could not immediately estimate what the raises would cost.

The idea for the 3.5 percent raise comes from the settlement granted state workers represented by the Civil Service Employees Association. However, that settlement called for only a $250 cash bonus for the 147,000 employees represented by CSEA.

That bonus would be about 1.5 percent of total payroll, but the package was rounded out to 3.5 percent by regular experience increments granted the 40 percent of state workers with less than five years' experience.

A check of legislative payroll lists by UPI showed that a handful of top aides in the Assembly were singled out by Speaker Stanley Steingut for raises of up to $7,500 a year. In the executive department, cash bonuses of $250 were handed out to all but agency heads and department commissioners, according to Gov. Hugh L. Carey's budget staff.

The $7,500 pay hike went to Marsha Aronoff, executive assistant to Assembly Majority Leader Albert Blumenthal. Her new salary is $37,500.

Catherine Carey of Buffalo, the clerk of the Assembly, had her pay raised from $22,000 a year to $25,000.

For other Assembly employees, here is what the pay increase means:

Joseph F. Crangle, the former state Democratic chairman who is now chief of staff and special council in the Assembly, went to $44,505 from his previous $43,000.

William Alexander, top press aide for Steingut, receives $41,400, a $1,400 raise.

Robert Spearman, public relations man for Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea, gets $34,244, compared to $32,459.

C. Daniel Chill, counsel to the speaker, went from $42,000 to $43,470.

Philip J. Bisceglia, executive counsel to Duryea, receives $43,169, up from $41,709.

In the Senate, payroll records are kept on a bi-weekly basis. Some of the across-the-board raises are:

John F. Haggerty, counsel to Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson, will get $1,667 every two weeks, instead of $1,610.

Albert J. Abrams, secretary of the Senate, goes from $1,610 to $1,667.

Charles W. Dumas, director of communications, will be paid $1,647 instead of $1,591.

Lodge Property Report Sept. 22

HURLEY
A five-page report of the Ulster County Soil and Water Conservation Service on the suitability of Oehler's Mountain Lodge property as the possible site for a new Hurley town park, will be reviewed Sept. 22 at 7:30 p.m. at West Hurley School. The joint meeting will be attended by members of the town's recreation and site committees, town and planning boards.

The SCS reported that the area is easily accessible for residents, most of the property is well drained, there is good parking, an existing pool, athletic field and picnic area and it has potential use for hiking, horseback, motorbike and snowmobile trails.

The 70 to 100-acre tract has been offered to the town for about $97,500.

Hurley Town Board, meeting Monday night, was notified that Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company has refused to consent to the town being a co-plaintiff in an action being brought by Concerned Consumers of the Mid-Hudson which is opposing Central Hudson rate hikes.

Hurley Town Board also received a communique from Central Hudson announcing that the rates on street lighting are being raised .003 cents per kilowatt hour.

The board set the date of Sept. 29 at 7:30 p.m. for a public hearing on revision of the town's dog ordinance which would bring it in line with the state dog ordinance. It is reportedly necessary to make changes in order to comply with requirements for hiring of a dog warden. The town also plans to enter into a contract with the Ulster County SPCA for use of its holding pen.

The hearing will be conducted at West Hurley Fire House prior to the regular town board meeting at which bids will be opened on the town's landfill project.

The town board approved the acceptance of Altamont Drive and Gina Road in Leewood Knolls, as town roads, discussed the possibility of moving the town clerk's office into the old library building off Route 28.

Miller Favors Generator Power

SAUGERTIES Paul Miller, Democratic candidate for supervisor in the town of Saugerties, has suggested that the old Cantine Paper Mill below Esopus Falls in the Village could be used to generate electric power for the township.

Miller noted that when the Cantine Family operated the plant they generated much of their own electric power. "With its excellent situation, the plant may have the potential for generating substantial power for the township if the proper investment is made," Miller said.

He said that he has been in touch with Robert Cantine who agreed that with fuel prices rising it might produce sufficient energy to make it worthwhile. Miller said the Cantine had raised the issue with Central Hudson several years ago but that the utility was not interested in a tie-in at that time.

Miller believes the energy crunch may have altered that situation.

"As town supervisor I would want to explore every possibility for bringing more jobs into the area," said Miller. "I certainly would put a feasibility study for power generation right up there near the top of the priority list. . . We have got to find ways to encourage a healthy economy for Saugerties. I will work hard with the business community towards that end. I strongly recommend that a task force be created to bring industry into the township, coordinating this with the work of the Town Planning Board."

Miller charged that the Saugerties Town Board has not shown enough initiative in meeting the town's fiscal and economic problems. "To sit through a typical town board meeting is like watching molasses run uphill," he says. "Supervisor A. Michael Schovel has not provided the necessary leadership qualities, but the Republicans are in the majority on the board, and they must bear the responsibility ultimately for the board's dismal failure to find remedies for the town's poor economic base."

Saugerties GOP Names Slate

A slate of six has been named by Saugerties Republicans to run for town office in November with prominent businessman and civic leader Frank Greco at the top of the ticket, running for supervisor.

Also named at a recent convention were: Margaret (Peggy) Dachenhausen, incumbent town clerk; Timothy Murphy, incumbent town justice; Jennifer Peetoom and Jerome Daley for councilmen and Joseph T. Mayone, Saugerties construction contractor, candidate for superintendent of highways.

Michael Catalinotto, town GOP chairman, called the slate "one of the best nominated by Republicans in many years." Pinning a "radical liberal label" on Paul Miller, the Democratic candidate, Catalinotto scored the "big brother government" advocated by Miller. He also reminded delegates that the GOP will be on Row B this year.

Greco noted that the town supervisor is the chief fiscal officer and as such should have business and administrative experience.

Prior to World War II, Greco operated a summer resort in Mt. Marion. After serving in the armed forces he returned to Saugerties and organized Greco Motors and later became treasurer of Greco Brothers Amusement Company of Glasco.

Presently executive secretary of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission, he recently resigned after 20 years on the Selective Service Board. A GOP committeeman for many years, he was town councilman for 16 years and has been active in service and firemanic organizations, as well as scout and religious activities.

Mrs. Peetoom has served as past president of the League of Women Voters, chairman of the Seamon Park Mum Festival, was a member of the zoning commission and has served as a fund raiser for the Heart Fund and Cancer Crusade. She is secretary and a member of the executive committee of the Republican Committee and member of the Saugerties Republican Club. In 1973 she was coordinator of the local Republican campaign and in 1974 she was co-coordinator for the Congressman Hamilton Fish Campaign in Ulster County.

Daley has been with the Fallsburgh Bottling Works for the past 25 years, starting as a salesman and rising to his present position as general manager.

Experienced in political affairs, he has been a GOP committeeman and served as a trustee on the Village Board in 1963. Daley is presently an assessor for the Village of Saugerties and a member of the VFW, American Legion, R.A. Snyder Hose Company, Saugerties Boat Club and the Rip Van Winkle Golf Club.

Mrs. Dachenhausen, incumbent Town Clerk was deputy town clerk since 1968 and was named town clerk by the town board after the death of her predecessor, Marion Newkirk.

The past eleven years Mayone has been associated with his brother John Mayone as a contractor in the construction and road building business. In this capacity he has designed roads and buildings; supervised employees and also estimated costs and expenses.

Murphy, present town justice, will be making his first run for political office. Judge Murphy was appointed by the town board early this year when Judge Michael Catalinotto resigned to become Town Republican Chairman. Prior to his appointment, Judge Murphy served as court clerk for two years.

He is an attorney in private practice and is associated with the Saugerties Law Firm of Rosenblum and Lamb.

City Charter Revision

Kudos are in order for the Kingston Charter Revision Commission, which will formally present its completed document to the public Thursday at a city hall public hearing.

The commission did a lot of soul-searching, much investigation and a mountain of homework before completing a document which should not only be beneficial to government operation in the city but which promises to save money in the long run.

Among highlights of the charter is the retaining of a "strong mayor" system of government and the formal establishment of a line of succession when the alderman-at-large is absent.

The charter emphasizes greater accountability from city government. It will open up meetings of city boards and commissions and require that decisions made in executive sessions be made public.

We think one of the most important aspects of the document is requiring the mayor to submit his budget to the public by Dec. 1 of each year.

It is now the custom of the mayor to submit a budget just prior to the end of the month (December), giving the aldermen and the taxpayers little chance to carefully scrutinize it. The Dec. 1 date will give everyone a chance to see what's in the budget before it's passed.

John R. Shults Jr., who was on both the 1964 and 1975 charter revision commissions, feels the proposed document being presented on Thursday emphasized greater accountability from city government.

Shults and his commission members spend arduous hours and compiled many facts and figures before completing their work. We commend them for a job well-done and hope the public will turn out on Thursday at the public hearing.

We also hope that the public will approve this new charter in November. It's something that's been needed for years and years. It's a good document.

Going, Going, Gone

With Labor Day quickly approaching, nights becoming a little cooler once again, days getting shorter and the schools opening one week from today, the signs are unmistakably clear. Summer is fast fading from the scene.

Those who must take one last holiday fling before the kiddies return to their books will be taking off this long weekend. When they return, the white shoes will be put upstairs in the closet, swimming pools will be covered until next year and car washers will be thinking in terms of winter maintenance.

According to Webster, summer means the warmer half of the year. The season is too short for most humans, especially the ones who spend time at the beach or fiddling around the garden. For seasonal workers, the end of summer means several months of no work. And for the kiddies, the end of summer signals the start of teachers and books.

Those who are using this final weekend of the summer season to go away . . . A reminder: Highways will be cluttered and tempers promise to be short. Take it easy so that you can come back and ask the yearly question . . . "Where has the summer gone?"

Berry's World

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — A move to clean up the throwaway cans and bottles that litter America has been sabotaged in the backrooms of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Every year, an astounding 60 billion throwaways are scattered across the American landscape — tossed in trash cans, strewn along roadways, dropped into lakes and streams. This not only is a staggering waste but a stupendous pickup problem.

As the first step toward reducing the debris, the EPA drafted new guidelines on June 2. These would require customers to pay a deposit on the beverage containers they purchase on federal premises. To get their deposit back, they would have to turn in their empty beer bottles and coke cans.

Although the rules apply only to national parks, military camps and other federal facilities, the intention also was to encourage cities, counties and states to adopt similar measures.

But if this seemed a simple, logical solution, the advocates at EPA didn't reckon with the greed of the manufacturers, who rake in huge profits from throwaways.

Nor did the advocates take into account the political power of the likes of the U.S. Brewers Assn., Aluminum Co. of America, Reynolds Metals, Can Manufacturers Institute, National Soft Drink Assn. and Glass Container Manufacturers Institute.

The story of what happened has been carefully locked in EPA files, where it was supposed to be hidden from the public. But we have obtained the suppressed memos and letters.

The manufacturers of cans and bottles are spending $20 million to thwart the EPA cleanup scheme. Even more dismaying, the container tycoons have been able to pull strings inside the EPA and to get inside information for the lobbying campaign.

For example, the June 2 guidelines were supposed to be kept secret until they were published in the Federal Register. The purpose of this rule is to prevent undue political pressure at the planning level.

But on June 19, copies of the draft guidelines were slipped to the can-and-bottle lobby. The official who leaked the material was EPA's solid waste director, H. Lanier Hickman. We have a copy of his transmittal letter asking the industry for its "review and comment." None of the material was leaked to the environmentalists, who were equally interested in the guidelines.

Armed with this inside information, the powerful lobby began to mobilize against the EPA plan even as EPA chief Russell Train was proclaiming his public support of "a mandatory deposit measure."

The U.S. Brewers, for example, distributed a costly, 38-page lobbying package to beer wholesalers. They were urged to write their local congressmen. Legal opinions, economic arguments and other helpful letter-writing hints were included. The names were also listed of every senator and congressman who might conceivably have anything to do with the throwaway problem.

ANKARA—Even if the U.S. Congress repeals its embargo on U.S. or U.S.-made military equipment for once-praised Turkey, the alliance between Washington and Ankara which has survived a quarter-century of American twists and turns seems beyond total repair.

"Can it really be true that 3 million Greek-Americans tell 220 million other Americans how to run their country?" Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel asked rhetorically in an exclusive interview with us.

"Your Congress must know that denying us even spare parts to keep our planes flying and our tanks running, while selling hundreds of millions worth of new equipment to Greece, will seriously affect our safety. Let me assure you, we shall not wait until Greece has a stronger air force than Turkey."

Strip away the rhetoric of hyperbole from such pronouncements and this bareboned political fact remains: Turkey, whose soldiers died for the U.S. in Korea and which (unlike Norway and Denmark) has accepted U.S.-controlled "special ammunition sites" (a euphemism for nuclear ordnance), is quietly speculating about new foreign and military approaches that would permanently downgrade the U.S.

Demirel, who heads a jerry-built, multi-party coalition, speaks with more restraint than his political adversaries. Indeed, he has been attacked Already this lobbying campaign has stimulated a flood of letters to EPA from Capitol Hill. More than 200 members of Congress have written to EPA about the guidelines.

Yet Hickman, far from being punished for alerting the industry, has been promoted. Other EPA officials met privately on August 13 with representatives from Reynolds Metals, American Can, U.S. Brewers, Coca-Cola, Bethlehem Steel, Owens-Illinois and related unions.

The confidential minutes show, incredibly, that another top EPA official, Acting Deputy Assistant Administrator Robert Colonna, slipped the lobbyists "copies of the comments made by other federal agencies during our agency review."

These comments, which are supposed to be strictly private, can now be used by the throwaway lobby to bring pressure on the other agencies that support the deposit measure.

The confidential minutes also note: "It is no secret that most of the people present would like to quash the beverage container guidelines completely."

As a result of the pressure that the industry had been able to mount behind the scenes, the EPA has now knocked out of the guidelines the recommendation calling for state and local governments to join in the battle against throwaways.

Footnote: Hickman explained that he and Colonna had merely meant to get the objections of the industry so that the final guidelines would need fewer changes. There was no intent to favor industry, he said, nor was it illegal to give them the documents.

FIGHTING CONGRESSMEN: With flying fists and feet, half-a-dozen members of Congress will battle for the karate championships of Capitol Hill on September 14 at Washington's D.C. Armory. The Senate will put up Sen. Quentin Burdick, R.-N.D. vs. Sen. Ted Stevens, R.-Alaska. Burdick has been trimming down for the bout and Stevens has been receiving daily private lessons from karate master Jhoon Rhee.

From the House side, Rep. Tom Bevill, D.-Ala., will fight Rep. Floyd Spence, R.-S.C., and Rep. Walter Fauntroy, D.-D.C. will square off against Rep. Willis D. Gradison Jr., R.-Ohio. The proceeds will go to a legal defense fund to help investigative reporters.

Where's my safety belt?

Inside Report

Turkey . . . A Country Scorned

by the chief opposition leader, Bulent Ecevit, a leftist who heads the largest party, for not retaliating harshly enough against the congressional ban on all military shipments.

We have to rethink our whole national defense concepts and our contributions to the North Atlantic Alliance," Ecevit told us. "Even if the ban is lifted, we know now that we have been left alone once. It could happen again."

The congressional rationale for shutting off every avenue to U.S.-made American weapons—barring trans-shipment from other NATO countries—was based on a never-used proviso in the law designed to punish the use of U.S. weapons for offensive warfare (Turkey's invasion of Cyprus). Turkish officials insist there are many examples of U.S. Allies violating this proviso with impunity (most particularly Israel).

Indeed, support for the embargo by many pro-Israel Congressmen shocked and saddened politicians in this Moslem nation of 40 million which has risked Arab wrath by maintaining diplomatic relations with Israel. The loss to the U.S. of intelligence from some of the most sensitive listen-and-look systems the U.S. has anywhere in the world could directly affect Israel.

It was these systems, for example, that informed the U.S. about a suspected major Soviet troop airlift at the most dangerous point in the October 1973 Arab-Israeli war. They were also important, if not essential, in proving to Turkey that Moscow was massively violating Turkish air space flying equipment to Syria during that conflict. Turkey demanded the overflights stop and they did.

More important from Washington's vantage point is loss of the primary source of intelligence data on Soviet missile performance. All this is now a casualty of Turkey's immobilization of U.S. bases here in retaliation for the arms embargo.

Turkey's first invasion of Cyprus last summer was inevitable, particularly in view of failure of the collapsing Nixon administration to react decisively against Greece for the Athens-inspired coup d'etat in Cyprus.

The second Turkish invasion of Cyprus, however, was dangerous overkill. "They went too far," a Western diplomat said, in building a favorable bargaining position from which to retreat in later Cyprus negotiations.

But such objective facts are brushed aside here as irrelevant. Instead, the embargo is seen, almost more in sorrow than anger, as unwarranted kowtowing by the U.S. to the political clout of Greek-Americans. Accordingly, it marks a new beginning in relations between the U.S. and the country that controls the vital Dardanelles and that, alone among NATO allies, has a long border with the Soviet Union.

"The U.S. is destroying our friendship and so we must regulate our relations with the U.S.," the prime minister told us. "I am not trying to prove something to your Congress or to be abusive or threatening. We must proceed very carefully, very attentively."

The implications for the U.S. of this "very attentive" re-regulating of the Washington-Ankara axis will be the subject of another report.

In a recent column, we incorrectly reported Lee Nunn as soliciting $750 million for the Nixon reelection campaign. The correct figure, of course, is $750,000.

The 30-Year Rip-Off of Poland

The people of the United States stifled a yawn last week as President Gerald Ford signed an official agreement making it legal that Poland is a slave to Red Russia.

No one seemed to notice. It was all such old news. — Estonia, Latvia, Poland had been grabbed by the big bear 30 years ago. If the Soviet Union felt comfortable and righteous about it, they didn't need Ford's signature to endorse the new boundaries.

I am not trying to upset detente. I favor it. But I must continue to wonder how far we must go to appease the Russians; to what lengths must we trudge to win an amiable handshake from a government which slaughtered 3,000,000 of its own people to achieve absolute power?

The pages of history turn yellow and curl too quickly. Every schoolboy should know that Hitler did not dare to move his armies east into Poland, in September, 1939, without first securing the permission of the Russians.

And they weren't giving it until they got something. So Germany carved Poland in advance—all Poland west of the Vistula River would belong to Germany. The vast tracts east of the Vistula—Russia's.

Russia signed. Hitler's strategy was basically simple: One enemy at a time. Von Blaskowitz's army stabbed 300 miles into Poland in 10 days, the swiftest movement of tanks, soldiers, dive bombers, kitchens, hospitals and fuel ever known.

Then Germany rested. And moved westward against the French and British armies, rolling them up along the French coast. Norway was next. One at a time. On June 21, 1941, Hitler turned against friendly Russia.

The giant was too awkward to protect himself, and too big to be strangled manually. At the gates of Moscow and Leningrad, the snows came. Russia begged the U.S. for guns, butter, tanks. We sent it.

President Franklin Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill met with the Russians at Yalta in February, 1945. Those three were the ultimate victors. They agreed on almost everything but Poland.

Britain and the U.S. said that all lands lost to Poland should be restored, and free elections held. The Russians said "Nyet." They had armies crossing Poland to get to Berlin. "We must protect our rear with a friendly government."

There were two Polish governments. One was the Government-in-Exile in London. Another was devised by the Russians inside Poland, called the Lublin government.

Churchill growled that his government would fall if he went home admitting that the Russians owned Poland. FDR wrote to Josef Stalin: "I have had to make it clear to you that we cannot recognize the Lublin government as now composed . . . you mentioned the possibility of bringing some members of the Lublin government here."

The Russians waited a day and said they couldn't reach their puppet government on the telephone.

However, after the Yalta Conference, free elections would be held. U.S. and British ambassadors could be "observers" at the elections.

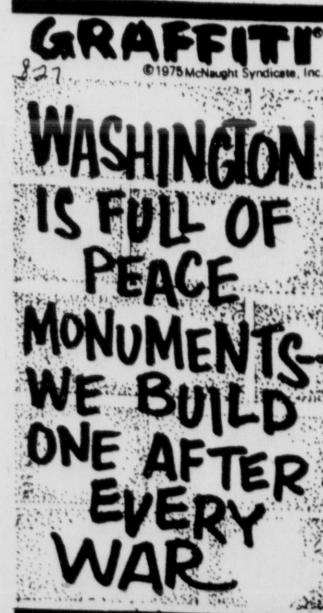

The Soviet said it proposed to keep the part of Poland that Hitler had given but, to be honorable about it, Russia proposed to give Poland a big chunk of Germany. That would square everything.

When the Yalta Agreement was published, a special section had to be given to Poland: "We came to the Crimea resolved to settle our differences about Poland. We discussed fully all aspects of the question. We affirm our common desire to see established a strong, free, independent and democratic Poland."

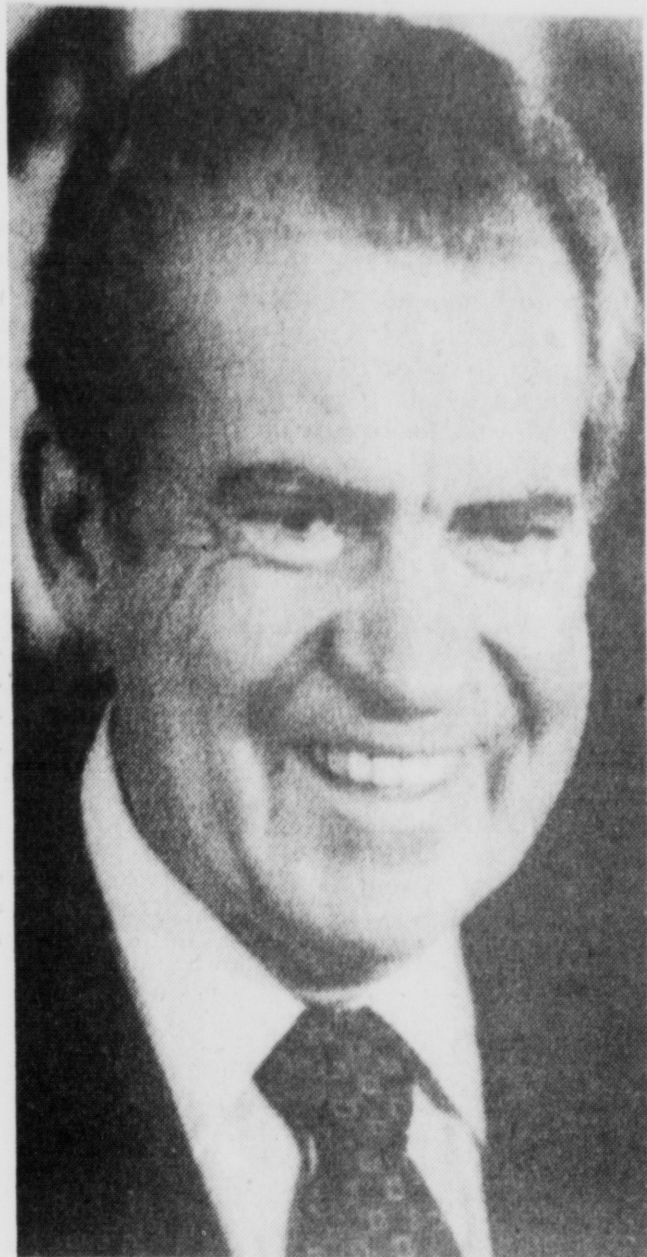

"As a result of our joint discussions we have agreed on the conditions in which a new Polish Provisional Government of National Unity may be formed in such a manner as to command recognition by the three major powers . . ."

Harry Hopkins whispered to Edward Stettinius: "This is the day we all prayed for so many years." His prayers went unanswered. So did the prayers of millions of Poles. The elections were not held, then or now.

Last week the Russians bear danced in glee as President Ford made those artificial borders official. Ford might have said: "Well, after 30 years, what is the use of protesting?" If so, he hasn't studied history. The Americans slaved under the yoke of Great Britain for 150 years before they struck a blow for liberty . . .

A First Glimpse of Nixon in Exile in Recent Court Papers

RICHARD NIXON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The public got its first glimpse inside Richard Nixon's exile at San Clemente last week and found the former president hard at work on the way he would like to be viewed by history.

This glimpse came in a 171-page deposition filed in Nixon's suit to obtain custody of the Watergate tapes and other presidential documents of his administration.

The sworn testimony tells little new about the Watergate scandal that drove Nixon from office, but tells much about a former president trying to gain a historical perspective on his years in office.

Nixon the historian is much present. He recounts how he spent more time personally writing his speeches than any president since Woodrow Wilson. Several times he said he was following the tradition set by Lyndon Johnson and John F. Kennedy — including the tradition of taping White House conversations.

Interestingly, Nixon has strengthened, not backed down, on the need for secrecy at the highest level of government.

To get the best advice when you're president, Nixon said, you've got to have open and frank discussion with the record.

"I wanted them to present their views with all the bark off so that I could, in making up my own mind, have the full range of options in front of me," he said.

"This principle of confidentiality is indispensable for the making of great decisions," he said. "There would have been no opening to China without total absolute secrecy and confidentiality."

Nixon made it clear he is not going to let the books of others who served him stand as the historical picture of his administration.

"Each of them, like a fly on a wall, sees only or hears only part of the story," Nixon said. "The full story is something else again and the full story is something that can only be obtained from the whole range of presidential materials."

Nixon said in a number of minor ways he did not carry out his duties as president in the ways of his predecessors. Take the case of the thousands of letters the president receives every week from the public.

"I wanted to see a sampling of mail that had been received ... and wherever the letters involved a major issue it became necessary to prepare an adequate response," he said. "I took personal responsibility for preparing that response."

Nixon's sensitivity seems close to the surface throughout the testimony. He is constantly defensive, using the advice he got from former presidents as a means of explaining his actions. Near the end of the deposition he recounted:

"President Johnson came to see me, as you know he was a man of many moods, but he could sometimes have a towering rage and in this instance rage was directed against what he called the Williams amendment, which I recollect

... removed that portion of the law which allowed gifts or public papers to be deducted for tax purposes.

"And President Johnson said to me, he said, 'now in view of that fact,' he said, 'just remember your papers are yours.' And he said, 'don't you ever give them to the government, because they are not going to let you deduct them. That is going to have a bad effect on all people in the future. Libraries are going to dry up. Those papers are yours. You should leave them for your children.'"

"I didn't follow his advice. Nevertheless he did indicate his view."

PAUL DONALD ZUCCA

Degree Awarded

ATANTA, GA. Paul Donald Zucca, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Zucca of 267 Miller's Lane, Kingston, received the doctor of jurisprudence degree recently in commencement exercises at the John Marshall Law School in Atlanta.

Zucca holds the master of arts degree in urban affairs from the graduate school of Loyola University, Chicago, and also holds the bachelor of arts degree from St. Francis College, Biddeford, Me.

Since June, 1972, Zucca has been state community involvement coordinator for the Georgia Department of Transportation, with responsibility for all five urbanized areas in Georgia.

Zucca is the grandson of Mrs. John Giarusso and the late John Giarusso of Rome, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zucca.

Onteora Board Approves Increase

BOICEVILLE The Onteora Board of Education has approved an increase in Type A school lunches.

Elementary lunches are increased from 45 to 55 cents, secondary lunches from 55 to 65 cents, and adult lunches from 75 to 85 cents.

The lunch program supervisor, Mrs. Frieda Hauck, was also granted permission to adjust the price of snack items commensurate with actual costs.

The junior high school cafeteria will not be completed for the opening of school, so seventh and eighth graders will be required to bring their own lunch or purchase a Type A lunch bag.

Corn Belt Runs Dry

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Bib-overalled Ronald Loutsch, a drought-plagued farmer from northwest Iowa, mopped his brow with a red bandana beneath the boiling Midwest sun and longingly eyed a new bright green tractor he can't afford to buy.

Loutsch, spitting a brown wad of chewing tobacco upon the trampled ground at the Iowa State Fair, said his corn crop has been nearly wiped out by hot, dry weather the past two years.

His "newest" tractor is 11 years old and Loutsch, the father of 14 children ranging from 2 to 21, knows it will be at least another year before he can afford a new one.

"That's my goal — if I got enough money — to buy one like that," said Loutsch, shoving his tobacco pouch into his hip pocket and pointing a calloused finger toward a huge $30,000 tractor in the sprawling farm implement display. "I've been looking at these tractors, but I'm not thinking of buying," he said. "I ain't got the funds. Golly, it didn't rain from the 20th of June until Aug. 10."

"Corn-wise, I would say I'll have about a 90 percent loss this year. I'll cut it for silage — that's the only way I can salvage it. Last year, I got nine bushels to the acre on my corn."

Despite his troubles, Loutsch said he wouldn't trade farm life for anything. He should know — he's been farming for 23 years.

"Farming ain't so bad, it's the weather that kills you," he said. "But if there's a will, we'll make it. Farming is a good rural life and a good way to raise your children and they like it, too."

Loutsch, a sweat-stained green cap atop his balding head and a spare-tire belly straining his pin-stripe overalls, doesn't travel to the fair to play the nickel-and-dime games of chance on the midway in hopes of winning a cuddly teddy bear. His gambling is big time — thousands of dollars each year on crops that may wither in the sun.

The 44-year-old 4-H leader and his son, Tony, 18, brought 14 Suffolk show lambs to the fair.

"Coming to the fair is a few days of our vacation, but actually it's more work than fun," he said.

Loutsch isn't the only drought-stricken Iowa farmer who hopes next year will mean more corn in the bin so a new tractor can roll through the fields.

Don Findley of Lovilia in south central Iowa said he had planned to buy a new tractor this fall. But then the rains stopped.

"I wanted to buy a new tractor, but then it got dry," Findley said, adjusting his bright red cap. "These guys talk about 25 or 30 percent of the crop being lost, but I think we're hurt worse than that. I think it's more like 35 or 40 percent."

But, like Loutsch, the 48-year-old Findley is used to the ups and downs of country living.

"Farming is a wonderful way of life. You can't beat it," Findley said. "You can't make a lot of money farming, but it's the best kind of life."

'Hope' Helps In Energy Crisis

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The old hospital ship Hope, for years sailing the globe on errands of mercy, now is being used for a different sort of mercy mission — saving a furniture plant owner from the high cost of electricity.

Economy Furniture Co. owner Milton Smith has purchased the boiler and generating unit of ship and is converting it to burn the 10 tons of sawdust his plant produces daily.

"We've been burning wood sawdust around here for about 20 years — 10 tons a day," Smith said. "We spent $125,000 in equipment to fix (the incinerator) so we wouldn't be polluting the air."

"About a year and a half ago," Smith said, "I got involved in the energy crisis and employed some electrical engineers who did a study and found that a cubic foot of sawdust has the same BTU (British Thermal Unit) value as a cubic foot of lignite (coal)."

Smith said he priced modern generating equipment, but at $500,000 to $750,000 was scared off.

"I almost gave up, but then I heard we could use some old naval equipment. I looked around for three months and heard about the Hope," he said. "We made an agreement to buy the boiler, three 500 kilowatt steam generators, the coolers, the circulating system and the switching system."

This hope, which traveled the world taking supplies and doctors to the underprivileged, was decommissioned and broken into scrap in Brownsville, Tex., two months ago.

A WEEKEND FLING FOR CHARITY

It's A Matter Of Helping

KINGSTON

Every summer, youngsters throughout Ulster County pool their time, energy and resources to help raise funds to combat the disease that cripples or kills thousands of their peers each year. It's a matter of children helping children without selfishness or self-satisfaction.

Muscular Dystrophy is a hereditary disease that is marked by a steady and irreversible deterioration of the muscles. Its victims are primarily children and young adults; the merest whim of fate can mean a lifetime spent in braces and a wheelchair. MD has put a swift and cruel end to dreams of dancing, running and acting normally in a world that often won't find a place for the abnormal.

And it is the children — those who possess a special sense of compassion and concern — who do more than their fair share in the fight against MD. Using an assortment of backyard games, refreshments and carnival-like contests, they prove that all the foundations, grants and door-to-door fund drives just aren't as special as a day spent collecting dimes and dollars on their own.

One such carnival was held recently by Kingston youngsters Christine and Eileen Olsen, Susan Houghtaling, Laurie Wertis and Wayne Ferguson at 72 Northfield Street. The $69.50 that they raised, as well as all the money collected locally, will be turned over to the Muscular Dystrophy Association during the upcoming 21 1/2-hour Jerry Lewis Telethon which begins Sunday at 9 p.m.

Construction on New Pool

Workman is shown during early summer construction on new swimming pool at Dietz Stadium. The pool itself is substantially completed but delays on construction of supporting facilities have ruled out any use of the facility this summer. (Freeman photo).

Mayor Seeking New Pool Note

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

The Common Council will be asked by the mayor to approve a $208,000 bond anticipation note to pay for the new city swimming pool at Dietz Stadium when it meets in regular session Tuesday night.

The problem, says Mayor Francis R. Koenig, is that the city doesn't have the money, despite the fact the state has pledged $104,000 to the project and the Andretta Foundation of Kingston is in for an equal amount.

The city needs $55,000 as soon as possible for partial payment of Phase I construction—the pool itself—which cost a total of $119,700.

According to the mayor, the city hasn't received a dime from either the Andretta Foundation or the state to date and if it is to pay bills due it will have to borrow the money in anticipation of reimbursement.

Koenig said he expects some money to be soon forthcoming from the Andretta Foundation. According to the mayor, the agreement with the Andretta's requires them to pay their share (half) as bills come due. At present, $55,000 is due. Koenig said he has contacted the Andrettas who have assured him their share of that amount (some $27,500) will be in city hands shortly.

There are a number of problems with Phase II beginning with the fact that the plans were never approved for bid by the state. Those bids were opened anyway by the city on July 16 creating yet another problem: they were some $16,000 over budget.

The mayor's first move was to petition the state for more money, arguing that "state delays" had driven up the cost of construction. Oddly enough, Phase I (the pool itself) came in some $5,000 under budget).

The state refused the extra money so it was back to the drawing board and a scaled down version of Phase II. Koenig says that's now been completed and that with the necessary agreements with the low bidders, work could begin in a few weeks.

The pool concept was originally approved by the Common Council in November of 1972. A month later the state notified city officials of its approval. It's been two years of delays since, some by the city, some by the state.

Delay was one of the reasons Koenig went to bid without state approval, figuring he said, that if there were any (minor) changes required by the state, they could be made after the bidding process, thus saving perhaps six weeks.

AREA NEWS TODAY

Record Enrollment Seen at UCCC

STONE RIDGE

The Board of Trustees at Ulster County Community College heard Robert T. Brown, the school's president, predict that full-time students for this fall may exceed 1,400—a new record. "Our enrollment looks very healthy and will be far beyond our earlier estimates," he told the board at Wednesday night's meeting.

Brown said that only 1,300 full-time students had been projected for the fall semester which begins after Labor Day. Only 630 new full-time students were expected this fall, he said, but indications are now that the number will be between 750 and 800.

Brown explained that Instant Admissions Days held Monday and Tuesday of this week had brought in about 100 new students. Additional regular registration is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 2, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Brown said that returning full-time (second year) students will run between 600 and 650.

Because of heavy enrollment, five college programs already have been closed to students for the fall semester, including nursing, water quality monitoring, service technician, landscape development and maintenance, and medical laboratory technology. A sixth program, electrical technology, is close to being closed, Brown said.

Brown reported that 670 part-time students already have pre-registered for the fall semester and predicted part-time registration will exceed 1,000 students when it is completed.

Evening registration for part-time students will be held on the Stone Ridge campus Tuesday, Sept. 2, and Wednesday, Sept. 3, from 6:30-9 p.m.

Last fall the two-year nursing and medical laboratory technology programs and the one-year service technician program were closed in August due to heavy student demand.

Brown reported earlier that the college had 1,812 full-time equivalent students for the 1974-75 academic year, a new record, and 172 more than the 1,640 full-time equivalent students projected for the year. The number of full-time equivalent students is arrived at by combining full-time and part-time students taking courses and equating them with full-time students.

Claim Tuition Controls Growth

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A group representing private colleges in New York State complains that the state is going ahead with a $167.5 million building plan for public colleges while places for 29,000 students in private institutions will be vacant this fall. A study prepared by the Commission on Independent Colleges and Universities, an organization of private colleges, showed that tuitions at nongovernment colleges and universities will increase an average of $200 this fall.

The study, released Tuesday, said the 29,000 student places could have been filled without adding to faculty or administration costs at the institutions, but the increasing cost of private school tuitions are pushing more students into public institutions.

At the same time, there will be no tuition increase at the State University system and "in spite of the fiscal difficulties confronting New York City," there will be no change in the free tuition policy at City University of New York, said Henry D. Paley, president of the CICU.

This "rapidly growing spread between the tuitions charged by government-operated and nongovernment sectors of higher education," Paley said was largely responsible for the fact that 95 percent of the growth in college enrollment this fall will be in public institutions.

A survey by the state Education Department showed school administrators expect a statewide increase of 17,045 students this fall, with only 484 students added to enrollment at independent colleges and universities.

"That lopsided ratio in enrollment growth for this year is a potential fiscal bombshell for New York's already hard-pressed taxpayers," Paley said.

Government-run schools now have 65 percent of the total higher education population, a reversal of the proportions 15 years ago, he said.

Paley offered his case for additional state aid to private universities, saying it now costs the taxpayers nearly $4,000 a year to keep a student at a public university "as opposed to costing the taxpayer only $600 a year for each student at an independent institution."

Busing Testimony

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Newburgh school officials have told state officials that an integration plan requiring cross-busing in the city's schools would destroy Newburgh schools.

Joel Spector, counsel for the school board, issued the warning Tuesday at the close of a three-hour administrative hearing before state Education Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist and two Education Department attorneys.

"The community of Newburgh doesn't want busing. It would destroy the city and the school district," Spector said, urging Nyquist not to go ahead with final plans in the case.

Although Spector urged Nyquist to allow the city to proceed with its own school integration efforts, Nyquist replied that in the past several years local efforts toward integration had amounted to "standing still."

He gave Spector two weeks to submit additional information in the case.

37 Building Trades Unions Give Scholarships

Two area trade union groups have formed the Hudson Valley Building and Construction Trades Scholarship Fund, with recent presentations to college presidents presented at Foster's Coach House in Rhinebeck. The two groups are the Ulster, Sullivan, Delaware and Greene Counties Building Trades Council AFL-CIO and the Dutchess County Building Trades Council AFL-CIO. Some of those participating in the announcement were: (L-R) Julius Lamanec, president of the former union; Robert Brown, president of Ulster County Community College; James Campion, an officer of Columbia-Greene Community College; John Connelly, president of Dutchess Community College; and John Varicchio, vice president of the latter union. Rondout Committee Formed To Support Propositions

KERHONKSON

An ad hoc committee has been formed to support two ballot propositions to be put up to voters of the Rondout Valley School District on Sept. 10.

John Nadratowski of Kerhonkson heads the committee, which in a prepared statement said: "The referendum will affect all sports for girls and boys, all music programs, band, chorus, all clubs, the yearbook and the senior play. The school cannot be used for any purpose after 4 p.m. This means no dances, Girl Scouts, drum and bugle corps.

"In this day and age children cannot be limited to the dry atmosphere of academic activities alone. They need a relief valve. Without these activities, other alternatives might be found, not nearly as cultural or wholesome as offered in the above-mentioned programs.

"We feel these programs are largely responsible for school spirit and pride and are extremely important to a child's growing up and development. We feel strongly that a well-rounded student can perform academically better and lead them to wider opportunities in life.

"We realize the plight of the senior citizens on fixed incomes. However, it was indicated at the last school board meeting that future budgets would be kept at an absolute minimum."

Voters on Sept. 10 will be asked to approve $76,770 for sports and extracurricular activities and another $71,554 for instructional supplies. The two propositions were among four voted down by district residents on Aug. 13 and were put up for a revote after a large crowd discussed the matter at the Aug. 19 school board meeting and presented the board with a 1,880-signature petition calling for another vote on sports and extracurricular activities.

Figures released by the district office give estimated effects on the tax rates of the four towns in the district for each of the two propositions. Passage of the sports and extracurricular activities proposition would mean an approximate jump of $5.29 per thousand of assessed value in Marlletown, $4.08 in Rochester, $4.50 in Rosendale and $4.90 in Wawarsing. The corresponding figures for the instructional supplies proposition are $4.90 in Marlletown, $3.77 in Rochester, $4.17 in Rosendale and $4.55 in Wawarsing.

The Sept. 10 vote represents the fourth try by the school board at something other than an austerity budget for the coming school year. On May 7 voters turned down a $6.7 million budget. The board trimmed it to within $200,000 of an austerity figure and tried again May 29 and was turned down again. For the third try, the board separated five items from the austerity budget and won approval for only one, to restore transportation within state-mandated limits of two miles for elementary and three miles for secondary pupils.

An $11,315 appropriation for library books and $22,992 for equipment also went down along with the sports and extracurricular activities proposal and the instructional supplies item which, if unchanged, will put the cost of such supplies directly on the parents involved instead of being absorbed within the general budget and spread across the entire district.

One thing will be different this time. Effective Sept. 1, all voters who are eligible to vote in general elections will also be eligible to vote in school elections. The district will hold registration on Aug. 27, 28 and 29 at the Kerhonkson Elementary School and Marlletown Elementary School from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

On Sept. 2, 3, 4 and 5 there will again be registration at the same schools during the same hours, as well as a special evening registration on Sept. 4 from 6-9 p.m. The registration is primarily for the benefit of those who are not enrolled on either the general election or school election rolls.

Reelection Plans Out For May

WOODSTOCK

After three terms as Woodstock supervisor, Verner L. May has called it quits.

May announced at a press conference Tuesday night that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself in the November election, after having held the post since Jan. 1, 1972.

Recently retired from IBM, May said that he had made future plans that would take him out of town for long periods of time and make it impossible for him to devote the time necessary to the supervisor's post.

"I intend to remain involved in town affairs, though," he said.

May, born in Waverly and raised on a farm near Corning, joined IBM as a toolmaker apprentice in November, 1936. He served in the U.S. Army in the Pacific Theater during World War II and was decorated several times.

Rejoining IBM after his military service, May held a number of positions and was transferred to Poughkeepsie in 1951 as manager of quality control analysis. He was transferred to the Kingston plant in 1955 and has been a Woodstock resident since that time.

He is a charter member of the Zena Fire Company and was building chairman when the present building was constructed. He has been finance chairman of the Woodstock Library, and a district and town finance chairman for the Boy Scouts of America.

May also served two terms as president of the Woodstock Republican Club and as a Republican committeeman for eight years. He also served as vice president of the Ulster County Charter Commission.

Valerie Cadden, now serving the second of four years as a town councilman, has announced that she will be a candidate for the supervisor's post at the Republican caucus to be held in the town hall at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 10.

"I have been involved in several projects such as the sidewalk district and the multiple dwelling ordinance that would like to see through to completion," she said. "Woodstock is a unique town

Brandy in Stable

WOODSTOCK

Brandy, best friend to the racehorse Singh and missing since Saturday morning, has been found, logically enough at a stable.

"I sensed he belonged to someone so I just kept him around and fed him," said Chris Day, owner of Woodstock Stables on John Joy Road off the Glasco Turnpike.

Brandy, stablemate to Singh, an early favorite in the Kentucky Derby and winner of over $200,000, ran off Saturday morning when a caravan of horses headed for Belmont Park from Saratoga stopped for a rest south of Saugerties.

The dog, a relatively rare Rhodesian ridgeback, showed up at Woodstock Stables a few hours later. Day, the owner, wasn't aware of the dog's identity until reading about his being lost in Monday's Freeman.

Day said he's given little thought to a reward. "I wasn't concerned about that," he told the Freeman. "I was just concerned that the dog got home."

Brandy's owners traveled to Woodstock Stables from Belmont Park today to retrieve Singh's missing stablemate.

Five Historic Landmark Designations

Ulster County Legislature has presented bronze plaques for five additional sites in Ulster County which have been accorded historic landmark designation bringing the total of such sites to 12. At the

Smaller Cars In the Future

DETROIT (UPI) — By 1982, as many as 5 percent of the domestic cars sold in the United States — perhaps one-half million — will be manufactured by foreign firms in U.S. facilities.

Two years before that happens, gasoline will cost more than $1 a gallon and subcompact cars will be the top sellers in this country.

These are the predictions of market researchers representing major suppliers of parts and materials to the automobile industry. A survey of their outlook for near-future trends for American transportation was commissioned by the trade publication Auto-Products.

The survey was conducted by the Automotive Market Research Council, formed in 1966 by a small group of market researchers who felt they could improve their abilities and the comparability of market data by sharing methods and ideas. In 1970, the AMRC began polling members for group forecasts of automotive supply and demand.

Among some of their other predictions:

- Subcompacts and compacts will account for 60 percent of U.S. total production in 1979, while subcompacts (the Pinto, Vega and smaller cars) will be the largest selling size of domestic cars in 1980.
- In 1979, a federal tax based on either vehicle weight or engine horsepower will be passed by Congress and private automobiles will be banned from the downtown area of at least one major city in 1980.
- Volkswagen will be assembling cars in the United States in 1979 and more than 5 percent of domestic passenger cars sold in 1982 will be manufactured by foreign firms in U.S. facilities. The Swedish automaker Volvo plans to begin assembling cars at a Chesapeake, Va., plant in 1977.

Learning More About the Hazards of Lead

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — For hundreds of years man knew lead was poisonous but did nothing about it.

Only recently have efforts been made to cut the risk of lead poisoning by banning lead-containing paint, switching to lead-free gasoline and cleaning up lead mining operations. But lead is still found in the air we breathe, the water we drink and the soil we grow our food in.

Environmental scientists are making a concerted effort to better understand how lead spreads through the environment and into our bodies, and to close off those paths.

The results of lead research projects were presented at a recent Conference on Trace Substances in Environmental Health at the University of Missouri-Columbia. Missouri has a special interest in lead because it is the No. 1 lead-producing state in the nation.

Among the recent findings:

- Poor people may be more vulnerable to lead poisoning because of deficiencies in their diets.
- Iron supplements, contrary to expectations, increase a child's tendency to absorb lead in the blood.
- The breakdown of forest litter in lead-mining areas is significantly slowed down because lead is killing insects and microorganisms which convert the litter into new soil.
- Lead enters the body by inhalation, swallowing or skin contact. The human body can eliminate as much as three-tenths of a milligram of lead from the body daily, but if more than that comes into the body, it starts accumulating.
- Early symptoms are weakness, severe constipation and colic-like pains. If exposure continues, muscles grow weaker and pain in the joints intensifies, eventually leading to coma and convulsions.
- Researchers also suspect that lead may contribute to mental retardation in children, who are more susceptible to lead poisoning than adults.
- Biochemist Hoon-Eng Khoo studied the rate at which animals absorb lead. She told the conference that when either calcium or phosphate were reduced in the diet, the animal eliminated less lead and absorbed more.
- She also found that if the calcium-phosphate deficiency was combined with a high-fat diet, animals absorbed lead 19 times greater than animals with a normal diet.
- The implications of her study are a warning sign to poor people, who are least able to afford the milk, milk products and green vegetables which supply calcium and phosphate-carrying proteins needed to prevent lead absorption. Poor people's diets also tend to be high in fat.
- Another study on treatment of lead poisoning was conducted by researchers at the University of Nebraska and Creighton University. They expected that preschool children with high lead levels in the blood would be helped by oral iron supplements.
- The study showed, however, that at least in children who had low lead levels to start with, the iron supplements made them absorb lead faster.

Annual Picnic

Republicans in the Town of Ulster held their 14th annual picnic on Sunday at Ulster Landing and despite threatening weather, drew a crowd of several hundred persons. Guests included Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (third from right) and State Senator Edwyn E. Mason (third from left). A rock group called "Strom" provided music for the event which was co-chaired by District-2 Legislators Lester Elendendorf, Richard Nace and Steven Hyatt. Town candidates shown here include (for) councilman Charles Rider (L) and Frank Sottile; Ralph Hayner for highway superintendent; Carmine Sabino for supervisor and Fred Wadnola for councilman on the right. Hurley Firemen Lauded

HURLEY
Raymond "Jake" Corswell, Town of Hurley supervisor, has released the text of a letter from James H. Fisher, whose house was damaged in a severe electrical storm earlier this month.

"My purpose in writing is to commend the volunteer fire department of the Town of Hurley for their extremely fast response and efficient handling of the entire situation," Fischer wrote to Corswell. "The heat and smoke on the second floor of my house was so intense that it is an understatement to say that they literally risked their lives in going into my daughter's bedroom, where lightning had traveled through the electrical system, melted the electric cord of a phonograph, and then ignited the bedspread on my daughter's bed. They were able to contain and extinguish the fire with a minimum of damage to the structure itself. In other words, they did not go in swinging axes and breaking windows and doing any unnecessary work.

"They worked feverishly for hours and after extinguishing the fire, they mopped up the water so as to prevent extensive damage to the hardwood flooring.

"I have never been so impressed with a group of men and when you consider that they are not even paid for this duty and it is not their regular job, it is especially gratifying.

"I am sure that families outside the City of Kingston who have never experienced the catastrophe of a house fire cannot appreciate the volunteer fire department as I can. Too many things are taken for granted and I now know that the volunteer fire department is one of them.

"I am enclosing my check made payable to the Town of Hurley Fire Department which I ask that you deliver to the fire department to be used by them in any way they see fit. This is a very small token of my appreciation."

UCCC Hikes

STONE RIDGE
A series of backpack hikes in the Catskill Mountains will be offered again this fall by Ulster County Community College with naturalist author Bob Steuding the leader.

A new feature will be a backpacking weekend Sept. 6 and 7 between Slide and Cornell Mountains, with registration deadline Aug. 29. Participants will camp on a ridge near a virgin spruce forest and pure water.

Other hikes planned are: a hike to North Lake and South Mountain Sept. 20 where hikers will see the locale of the two classic mountain houses of the 19th century — the Catskill Mountain House and Kaaterskill Mountain House — as well as Kaaterskill Falls and Boulder Rock, seat of the Hudson River School of American landscape painting.

A Sept. 27 hike is planned to Artists' Rock and North Point for more panoramas immortalized by Hudson River painters.

The Oct. 4 hike will reach Hunter Mountain, one of only two mountains in the Catskills over 4,000 feet high.

For Oct. 11, hikers will travel to Giant Lodge on Panther Mountain, a nine mile walk through the Woodland Valley.

The Wittenberg eight-mile hike Oct. 18 will provide a view of the entire Ashokan Reservoir. And a winter hike is planned for Dec. 13 to Platte Clove, with one prior hike a prerequisite, as hikers prepare to climb a mountain without using a marked trail.

Further information on registration deadlines can be obtained by calling the Office for Continuing Education at the college.

SASS

VECCHIARELLI

KINGSTON IBM has announced the following three appointments for its Kingston facility:

William H. Sass, a resident of Stone Ridge, has been promoted to senior manufacturing/quality engineer at IBM Kingston System Products Division.

Sass joined IBM in 1957 and is currently working in the area of Advanced Manufacturing Engineering, specializing in the use of graphic displays (TV-like devices which enable a computer to present a picture to the user) for aiding manufacturing processes.

Sass is the recipient of an IBM Outstanding Contribution Award for his efforts in this field. He has presented numerous conference papers on the subject before professional groups such as the Design Automation Workshop and Society of Automotive Engineers and is the author of a number of articles published in trade magazines.

Sass has been involved with the Rondout Valley School Board and has been an active participant in Marriage Encounter. He, his wife Donna, and children Mary and Chris, reside on Buck Road.

John A. Higbee, a resident of West Hurley, has been promoted to senior programmer in the IBM Corporation's System Communications Division's laboratory in Kingston. He is responsible for systems support for the IBM 3790 Communication System, a product developed by the local laboratory.

He began his IBM career in Kingston in 1962 as a junior engineer and has remained at this location since that time. He worked on a project for the Federal Aviation Agency in the mid-1960's for which he received an Outstanding Contribution Award from IBM in 1966. He has also worked in the areas of engineering and programming development.

He graduated in 1962 from Tri-State College in Angola, Ind., with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Electrical Engineering and has taken graduate courses at Union College's Poughkeepsie campus.

Higbee, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Higbee of Krumville, is a member of the Association for Computing Machinery.

Higbee and his wife Margaret Ann, and their two children, John Jr., and Christine Ann, reside at 101 Pine Street.

Nicholas Vecchiarelli, a resident of Marlboro, has been promoted to senior engineer in the IBM Corporation's System Communications Division's Kingston Laboratory. He is responsible for current product display engineering and custom products using displays.

He began his IBM career in Poughkeepsie in February 1955 as a laboratory technician and came to the Kingston site in December of the same year.

Vecchiarelli has been active in engineering work on IBM displays since 1967. He has also worked on the SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) computer and in the area of computer data storage.

His schooling includes study at the RCA Institute in New York.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vecchiarelli of Marlboro. He and his wife Louise reside on Hudson Terrace.

Convenient Hudson Valley Head

LOUISVILLE, Ky. Convenient Industries of America (CIA) is expanding senior management to accommodate 15 months of growth, which has increased stores in operation by 31 percent.

"This move will pinpoint operating responsibilities," CIA President Harlin D. Peden said. "We now operate 228 stores in eight states, and 54 of them have come on line since the end of fiscal 1974."

Part of the new management alignment is the naming of Anthony W. (Tony) Foellger as vice president of the northeastern division, which now involves 46 stores. Foellger will be in charge of all store operations in New England and in CIA's Hudson Valley Region in New York and New Jersey. He now serves as regional director for the Hudson Valley Region.

Larry H. Kinney, vice president for store operations, will be in charge of the central division, concentrating on directing operation of stores in Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa. Kinney will continue overall direction of CIA's marketing, promotion and advertising efforts.

Peden called the steps "not only a firm commitment to establish a strong Convenient system in the northeast but also an effort to assure direct supervision of progress in essential marketing programs and growth in the promising midwestern region."

Two men were named to aid Foellger. L.W. Chappel, Jr., now assistant general manager for the Oscar Ewing Company, a wholly owned CIA dairy delivery subsidiary, will become regional director for the New England area. Chappel succeeds Don Delph, who will become the owner-operator of two Convenient Food Mart stores in New England.

Named acting regional director for Hudson Valley is R. David Mitchell, now a food store coordinator and formerly supervisor of personnel for the Grand Union company's E-Z Food Shop system.

Foellger came to CIA in 1971, following service as an executive of Cloverleaf Dairy, which serves the Northern Kentucky area. He served CIA as organizer and general manager of Lo Temp Foods Distributors, Inc., which buys ice cream and frozen foods in quantity and sells and delivers them to Convenient Food Mart stores.

Foellger also helped organize another CIA subsidiary, Financial Opportunities, Inc. The company, licensed by the small business administration, provides financial assistance to otherwise qualified store franchisees who lack investment capital.

Herman Named No. 1

MARLBORO Ralph C. Herman Co., Inc. of Marlboro has been named the number one distributor in the United States this year of Fox fertilizer spreaders.

The announcement was made by Koehring Farm

Division, Appleton, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Herman were guests at the Koehring Plant, they were honored at a banquet and presented a plaque.

The Herman Co. was the top dealer in 1957 also, the first year the Fox spreader was sold.

Lassers Finally Getting Off the Ground in the Printing Industry

NEW YORK (UPI) — The use of the high speed laser beam in printing and other communications, bedeviled by one setback after another, at last seems to be getting off the ground.

Three M Co., St. Paul, says it has sold about a score of laser beam recorders for computer output microfilm data systems in 16 states and four foreign countries.

They are used for such purposes as financial reports, recording of automobile and other product warranties on microfilm, putting insurance policies and records on microfilm or microfiche, and large scale credit analysis reports. Ultimately, they will be used in various kinds of publishing and printing.

International Harvester Co.'s truck division at Fort Wayne, Ind. recently gave public demonstration of its 3-M laser beam recording system. IHC previously had used an electron beam recording system for computer output microfilm that was much slower. But even that system was so fast the company sold time on it to 20 other companies, mainly for making microfiche records and documents.

But the use of the laser beam in mass communications such as periodical and catalog printing and book printing has been restrained by technical and commercial problems. Its most effective use right now is for making microfiche cards or microfilm at high speed cheaply. Microfiche and microfilm have many advantages over printing on paper. They are compact, relatively cheap to produce, very cheap to distribute and versatile. They don't require color separations and color plates to reproduce colors.

The stumbling block is that both microfiche and microfilm have to be read on reading machines. While the number of such machines in use is increasing steadily, they would have to become as common as TV receivers or portable radios before microfiche publishing of magazines, newspapers and books could become widespread.

Some microfiche enthusiasts think that will happen before the end of this century.

Three years ago, several companies, including Photon, Inc., of Wilmington, Mass., major maker of photocomposing machines, believed they were on the verge of using the laser beam to set cold type and make printing plates. Photon even planned to go into immediate production with such a machine but the effort ran into various difficulties.

Now, photon has announced it expects to install several laser beam systems early next year. But it will not be the system contemplated in 1972 which used the laser beam to replace the Xenon lamp printing system. This new system uses the laser to print characters at stupendous speeds and at definition good enough for perfect reproduction in dots or strokes on either film or paper.

It is a "dry" system—no chemical developing is required—working with computer stored type fonts. It is much faster than the laser system tried three years ago and many times as fast as any other system of making printing plates, a Photon spokesman told UPI.

Also three years ago, Cartier's, the Fifth Avenue jewelry store, gave a demonstration using the laser beam for point-of-purchase advertising. A ghostly hand wearing a ring and holding up a necklace was floated in space on a laser beam in a full three dimensional display. This seemed to open enormous display and advertising possibilities but laser experts say nothing yet has come of it. ap for pms fri. Aug. 15.

Property Request Rejected in Rochester

ROCHESTER
Rochester Town Board rejected a request of Howard T.
Terwilliger Thursday to have his property in Kerhonkson rezoned from residential to business.

Because a four to one vote was needed for approval, the three to two vote in favor of the change was insufficient for passage.

But, it was suggested that, since there had been no opposition from his neighbors or other townspeople, Terwilliger ask his neighbors to join with him in requesting that his property and the adjoining areas be rezoned for business. Councilman Sam Waruch said that he would endorse this action willingly, since creating a business district would not be spot zoning. Terwilliger said he will contact his neighbors and, if they agree, will present the joint request to the town board. The board would then send copies of the request to the town and county planning boards, and set up a public hearing date.

Previously, making the motion to allow the rezoning was Town Justice Harold Lipton. He refuted the Ulster County Planning Board's objections to spot zoning by stating that the whole town is spot-zoned right now, and that the property in question was zoned wrongly in the first place, as it had been formerly used for business. Waruch, while declaring his personal desire to see the property used commercially, argued that the town would be subject to a flood of similar requests if this application were allowed.

Arguments were also made that commercial use of the property would increase local employment and that there had been no opposition to its proposed commercial use.

Town Attorney William Mullany told the board it had the legal right to approve the request if it felt the land was suitable for business use.

Supervisor Wilfred Neff pointed out that the type of business to be conducted would also have to be approved. Stating his reasons for opposing the change, Councilman Vernon Gray said that the property does not conform to the requirements for business property. Lipton replied that nothing would be approved if the board works strictly by the book.

After the vote, Justice Lip-ton introduced another mo-tion, that the Rochester Board of Assessors be asked to re-consider the assessment of the Terwilliger property, since the rezoning rejection does not permit the owner to derive income from it. It was passed unanimously.

KINGSTON
The Reynolds Recycling Van will visit Kingston in September, according to John Falk, manager of the Permanent Reynolds Recycling Plant in Utica.

The van will be at the Kingston Shopping Plaza on Tuesday, Sept. 9, and Tuesday, Sept. 23, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and will pay 15 cents a pound for all-aluminum cans, foil, and aluminum meal trays. The current market price is paid for all other aluminum materials.

"We are seeing more and more individuals as well as groups finding that aluminum recycling is to their economic advantage," Falk said. "Countless organizations such as women's clubs, Boy Scouts and schools are taking on recycling as an easy fund-raising project for their specific programs. Additionally, individuals are discovering this as an instant method of supplementing their income."

Reynolds reports that a total of 38.5 million pounds of the lightweight metal was collected from January through June, a 147 percent increase over the 15.6 million pounds collected in the similar period last year. Reynolds paid the public $5.8 million during the first six months for their efforts, compared with $5.4 million paid in all of 1974.

Rondout Policy

KYSERIKI
The Rondout Valley Central School District has announced a new free and reduced price lunch policy for children unable to pay full prices. Breakfast is also served under the same terms at the Rosendale Elementary School.

For a family unit of one person, free lunches will be provided if income is not more than $3,230, and reduced price lunches if the income is not more than $4,520. Other free lunch and reduced price lunch maximum incomes for various sized families are as follows: two persons, $4,240 and $5,930; three persons, $5,225 and $7,350; four persons, $6,260 and $8,770; five persons, $7,190 and $10,060; six persons, $8,110 and $11,365; seven persons, $8,950 and $12,530; eight persons, $9,775 and $13,700; nine persons, $10,550 and $14,770; and ten persons, $11,310 and $15,840. For each additional person add $750 to the free lunch price and $1,050 to the reduced price lunch price.

Project Successful

TANNERSVILLE
The ad hoc committee
Tannersville area residents working to assist Dr. Kobkier Chukiert to establish a practice in Tannersville has been successful.

Dr. Chukiert will open his practice there the first week of September. To give area residents a chance to meet the doctor and his family, the committee is sponsoring a reception at the Marion Central Hall on Sunday, Aug. 31, beginning at 2 p.m. The public is cordially invited and refreshments will be served.

Dr. Chukiert is a graduate of Chulalongkorn Medical School, Bangkok, Thailand. He has served in the Thai Royal Air Force Hospital, Queens-General Hospital, Kingsbrook Jewish Medical Center, New York Hospital, Joint Disease, Kingston Hospital, and the Greene County Memorial Hospital in Catskill.

Old Fashioned Fountain Returns as Status Symbol

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ever since the ball point pen began pushing the fountain pen toward limbo there have been some who resisted, and others who bowed to the inevitability of progress but wished all the same the ball pen would permit the writing individuality of the old-fashioned gold nib.

In his famous novel "1984," George Orwell made a big deal of his hero's insistence on using a fountain pen instead of a ball pen as a gesture of revolt against totalitarian tyranny.

Change never has come quickly in the pen industry. It took 1,000 years for steel point pens to replace quills and another 200 years until fountain pens took over from the dip pen at the turn of the century. The ball pen made its entry in the 1940's.

Banks were reluctant to accept checks signed with the first ball pens. The early ones wrote with a broken line; it was said the signatures faded and even that the signature could be lifted and transferred.

Even after the ball pens were improved and came into universal use for their convenience, the criticism still was made that the ball pen with its waxy ink didn't produce a signature as individual as a fountain pen, nor colors as bright as the water-based fluid inks.

This brought the soft tips in the 1960s, a revival of types of pens used by the ancient Chinese and Egyptians.

Now, there's a pen that seems to combine the best of all — a new "floating" ball pen that uses liquid ink to give the flowing stroke of a fountain pen and produce the vivid, bold line and smooth writing of the soft tip.

Two Japanese companies have been marketing them on the west coast for several years and Berol Products Co., Danbury, Conn., has been selling one nationally since last January. These are non-refillable pens retailing under a dollar.

Other companies are gearing up for the new floating ball pen.

Parker Pen Co. of Janesville, Wis., one of the oldest and largest pen makers, will bring out a line this fall of three refillable ball pens using liquid ink cartridges. "It wouldn't be practical to fill a ballpen from an ink bottle," a Parker spokesman said. "The ink has to be metered too finely."

The Parker pen will sell for $2.98 to $17.50, and would seem little threat to the inexpensive throwaway types.

When the ball pen first came out during World War II, it sold for $10 to $15 and made fortunes for its sponsors, Milton Reynolds in the United States, and others in Europe and Latin America.

Parker President George Parker thinks the new liquid ink ball pens may revolutionize the pen industry the way the original did.

He could be right. A big portion of today's population never has written with "real ink!" It could catch on.

Meanwhile, what has happened to the market for the old fashioned fountain pen?

"The cheap fountain pen market is dead," the Parker spokesman said. "Although we make one to sell for only $5, those priced at $25 and up sell much better."

"This big sale is outside the United States to those rich people of the world who care for objects of beauty and status. They want gold and platinum barrels and elegance of shape and they will pay as much as $500 for a fountain pen that is sufficiently elegant and unique."

Fight Urban Blight

BOON, Mich. (UPI) — Crime, blight and social indifference may be everyday facts of life in many American cities. But Boon has had enough.

Inspired by the zeal of a Baptist minister and a lesson from American history, Boon's 100 residents are waging war against problems that threaten to turn their idyllic northern Michigan village into a ghost town.

"The town was wasting away," the Rev. Harry Trover, new pastor of the Boon Baptist Church, said. "When I first came here as an evangelist I fell in love with the town. It's just a beautiful, idyllic garden spot. So much potential."

But rampant vandalism, unattended decaying buildings and a growing coldness among village residents was changing the town's personality.

Some talked of leaving. Even the post office threatened to close.

The biggest threat, Trover said, came from a gang of teenage vandals who openly terrorized the town, destroying property, ripping up gardens, killing animals.

One small girl ran screaming from a playground after watching the youths burn a nest of live baby birds, Trover said. The vandals also are suspected of killing Trover's dog.

Boon, built as lumber town near the turn of the century, had been a quiet, unspoiled farm community, nestled in the woods in northern Michigan's ski country.

"We don't want revenge," Trover said of those who are changing it. "We want to help them."

Vacant, decaying buildings mar the landscape and pose a safety hazard to children who play there. No one will pay to tear them down. Playground equipment is old and damaged. Community school officials refuse to replace them because of the vandalism.

Neighbors began living like strangers behind locked doors. No one liked what was happening, but few felt anything could be done.

"It was pathetic. That's all. Indifference. The old story of 'I don't want to get involved,'" Trover said.

Convinced something had to be done, Trover and a handful of citizens organized a town meeting — the first in the village's history, to everyone's recollection. Boon's future had to be talked out.

The night of the meeting arrived and the entire town jammed into the Boon Township Hall.

"It was terrific," Trover said. "It was just an old-fashioned town meeting."

Wexford County officials, state police, social services and juvenile authorities also attended the meeting. Plans were made, committees were organized, promises were extracted from county officials and from relatives of the suspected vandals.

"I think we were all encouraged," Trover said. "There is never an easy answer, but we made a start. We met as a community and the common goal of lifting out town."

"One solution may not work for a Detroit or a New York but just look at all the less towns across the country plagued with h's same problems — blight, vandalism, broken homes, indifference. I just hope what's happening here will be an inspiration to others."

Circus is Coming

CENTERVILLE

The 1975 edition of the Roberts Brothers Circus, featuring clowns, acrobats, jugglers, aerial acts and performing animals, will appear Sept. 2 through the sponsorship of the Centerville Fire Company.

John Paige, chairman of the Centerville and Cedar Grove fire companies, said: "Our organization is bringing to you one of America's finest circuses to enable the children of our community to enjoy wholesome entertainment. Profits from the circus will go toward building.

"Our fund will benefit the greatest from the advance sale of tickets sold by our members. We are certain that the people of the Saugerties area will back us in our project."

LIFE TODAY

Composition by David Carey Highlight of HVP Pops Concert

By Dorothy A. Narel

WOODSTOCK

The night was humid but not uncomfortable because the Woodstock Playhouse is air conditioned. Programming for the scheduled Summer Pops Orchestra included some of the most popular "chestnuts" under the direction of Edward Simons. The orchestra was the Hudson Valley Philharmonic's version of a Summer Pops Orchestra, 50 members out of their usual 80, and the evening's setting was one of informality. This was Monday, Aug. 25th.

In the audience were Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Addy (she is Celeste Holm) both of whom are starring this week in the comedy hit And Nothing But at the Woodstock Playhouse, and Conductor Joel Thome who told LIFE he will be directing the September 11 and 13 concerts of the Philharmonic in New York City's Carnegie Hall. The evening will be a well rounded one since it will feature the Eric Hawkins Dance Company. Music by Rieger, Thomson, Hovanes and Diamond will be played.

Monday night's concert was partially funded by a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts. This is marvelous support for an ongoing, talented organization. What a pity the community-at-large didn't initiate comparable support.

The Philharmonic gave a beautiful rendition of Enesco's Romanian Rhapsody No. 2. A good sound technique, good melodic sense was maintained throughout the number. It was evident the conductor Simons and members of the orchestra had a good feel for the Enesco form. This particular Rhapsody reveals a different facet of Romanian temperament from the one that is interpreted in Enesco's Rhapsody No. 1 in A Major. Nonetheless it was well performed and thoroughly enjoyed.

Another popular "pops" selection was the Rakoczy March by Berlioz. The theme Berlioz used for his March was a famous one in Hungary and was believed to have been written by Michael Barna, a court musician of Prince Franz Rakoczy.

The Philharmonic also played Sabre Dance by Katchaturian.

Highlight of the evening was the Suite for Xylophone and Orchestra composed by David Carey and played by him. The work was appreciated by this reviewer because, first, it is good music and second, Carey is a very fine performing artist as well as composer. He is interested in furthering the use of mallet-played instruments (xylophone, vibraphone, marimba) as solo instruments. He has written several compositions and performed extensively in record and TV studios with such diverse artists as Andre Kostelanetz and Robert Flack. Carey studied percussion, composition and piano at Pittsburgh Musical Institute and the Manhattan School of Music.

The Philharmonic also played Glinka's Russlan and Ludmilla Overture. Some would say the history of Russian music begins officially with Glinka. He was the first Russian composer to be fired with the ideal of composing Russian music and it was he who served as criterion and inspiration for later nationalist Russian composers. His opera, Russlan and Ludmilla has been regarded "as absolute music." The Overture is famous and undoubtedly the most celebrated and most frequently performed of Glinka's music.

J. Randolph Peyton, baritone, also appeared on the bill with the Philharmonic. He sang four songs by Aaron Copeland and two selections from Gershwin's Porgy and Bess.

Peyton has a rich baritone voice and he sings with beautifully sustained tones and excellent diction. Apparently, from what the conductor said, the singer and orchestra met only 20 minutes prior to concert time. If that's the case, Peyton is to be doubly applauded.

Edward Simons makes a fine conductor. He seems to enjoy the task. Currently Professor of Music at Rockland Community College, Simons is concertmaster and assistant conductor of the Philharmonic. He began his musical career in 1931 as a member of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Fritz Reiner. Simons was director of the HVP's Orchestra-in-Progress and is active in the Hudson Valley String Quartet and the Haydn Festival Orchestra.

The next concert for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic is October 6 when Luis Garcia Renart, acting music director, will conduct an all Brahms program. Featured pianist will be Todd Crow. The concert will be performed in Community Theatre, Kingston.

Modern Dance Courses at UCCC

Three credit-free courses in Modern Dance are being offered this fall by Ulster County Community College on Saturdays.

There are two sections of Beginning Modern Dance which will meet on 10 Saturdays, starting Sept. 20. One will run from 10 to 11 a.m., while the other will go from noon to 1 p.m. The registration deadline for both is Sept. 12.

Both courses will be taught by Marianne Monnikendam Vernon, a former member of the Jose Limon Dance Company. She calls modern dance a medium of communication in which one's whole self has the opportunity for total expression through movement.

The beginning course is designed for male and female students who have had no previous dance training. It will include work in techniques to increase strength, flexibility and control.

The intermediate course is designed for male and female students who have had previous dance training. Techniques of modern dance will be used to further develop strength, flexibility, and control leading to self expression and communication through dance.

Further information on these courses can be obtained by calling the Office for Continuing Education at the College.

'Chairman of Board' Wows 'Em at SPAC

Sinatra and Good Music Synonymous

By Edward A. Palladino
Managing Editor

SARATOGA SPRINGS

His once jet black hair is now white around the edges; there is a noticeable protrusion around the mid-section and the voice that has thrilled millions for more than 30 years in minus the pitch and range and at times sounds frazzled.

Yet, Francis Albert Sinatra managed to entertain several thousand of his loyal fans Monday at the Performing Arts Center. He did it with the flair that has made him the nation's top male vocalist for as far back as one dares to remember.

The "Chairman of the Board," a title bestowed on Sinatra several years ago by famed disc jockey William B. Williams, did his thing for nearly 90 minutes and the crowd loved it. Sinatra's thing is singing. And sing he did.

His music was drawn from all eras of his lengthy career. "Nice and Easy," "But Beautiful," "Chicago," "The Lady Is a Tramp," "Nancy With the Laughing Face" and "My Way." It was Sinatra music at its best and he brought back the memories.

Sinatra revolutionized popular singing back in the 1940s and lifted it to the level of art. He is not the same Sinatra today but you couldn't notice much difference.

It rained halfway through the performance but the wet weather didn't seem to dampen the spirits of those sitting outside the giant center. They were there to see their guy sing in his way.

The Hoboken, N.J. native was preceded on the stage by the Four Steps and comedian Pat Henry. Don Costa conducted the orchestra.

Sinatra landed at Ballston Spa airport after flying from New York City. He arrived at the center shortly after nine.

It was the first appearance at the 10-year old Performing Arts Center for the man who in the summer of 1967 set an attendance box office mark with a historic seven-city, nine-concert tour which grossed more than $1.1 million.

Even if he did most of his singing from memory, those in attendance will testify that the memory is a good one. Sinatra and good music are synonymous, even more than 30 years after he became a star.

Thousands of fans flocked to Saratoga Springs Monday to hear Francis Albert Sinatra sing "in his way."

Final Curtain on Sunday For Maverick's 60th Season

The final curtain falls next Sunday, Aug. 31 on Maverick Concerts' 60th Season. Paula Robison, flute; her husband Scott Nickrenz, viola; and Arnold Steinhardt, violin, will present a program of works by Max Reger, W. A. Mozart, Francois Devienne, and Ludwig van Beethoven.

Miss Robison is a resident member of the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center. She was the first American flutist to win first prize at the Geneva International Com- petition. In a Carnegie Hall recital two seasons ago accolades were accorded her by music critics and the public alike.

Mr. Nickrenz and his wife Paula are artists-in-residence at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston. He was a founding member of the Lenox and Vermeer Quartets. Besides performing at many international musical festivals he has taught at Tanglewood, Mass., Princeton University, the North Carolina School of the Arts, and Northern Illinois University.

The third member of this trio, Mr. Steinhardt, was born in Los Angeles in 1937 and made his debut with that city's philharmonic at the age of 14. International recital and orchestral engagements followed. He has served as assistant concert master of the Cleveland Orchestra under George Szell. Today he serves on the faculty of the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia where he studied a few years ago.

BICENTENNIAL SECTION DRAWS CONSIDERABLE ATTENTION

Annual Art Exhibit Has Historical Flavor

The 28th annual exhibit of the Ulster County Art Association took on an historical flavor with a section of the show reserved for paintings celebrating the 200th bicentennial year of the country.

Some of these local scenes of historical interest awakened nostalgia in the viewers who were on hand for the two-day exhibition at the Academy Green.

Many of the participating artists in this year's exhibition have won recognition in the past for their works, some being recipients of awards in competitive exhibits throughout the United States and Canada.

Some of the artists taking part in the recent exhibition included Kristy Bishop, Nancy Setera, Helen Shaw and Areta Myers. Another artist included Lewis Brown who exhibited some of his pictures of animals done in black oil with stunning results.

One work by each participating artist in the Academy Green show will be on display at the Ulster County Savings Bank this week when three paintings will be selected for awards.

Oldest State County Fair Opens Thursday in Chatham

The gates will open on the 135th consecutive Columbia County Fair in Chatham Thursday at 5 p.m., to run through Labor Day.

The curtain raiser for this oldest New York State county Fair will be Jack Kochman's Hell Drivers auto thrill show. It will take place Thursday night in front of the grandstand, admission to which is free.

Friday will feature a combination Senior Citizens and Youth Day. All young people through school age will be admitted to the Fair free of charge. The Seniors will pass in by showing Senior Citizen identification.

Friday night Stoney Roberts Demolition Derby will be run in two elimination heats and a final feature event. This also will be in front of the free grandstand. Nearly 100 cars have been entered in this crash 'em, smash 'em spectacular.

Saturday's feature will be the 25th annual volunteer firemen's parade competition. Some 30 fire companies are scheduled to participate along with 18 marching musical units, ladies auxiliary groups and dozens of fire trucks.

Sunday's program includes the annual Fair Western Horse Show, Pony Pulling competition, an afternoon sky-diving exhibition, 4-H fashion revue and animal parade. The stage feature will be Clay Hart and Sally Flynn, of the Lawrence Welk TV group, for afternoon and evening performances.

Sunday evening will highlight the 39th annual Schoolgirl Queen Coronation in which representatives of Columbia County's six public high schools will be competing for the Queen's crown and accompanying cash awards.

There will be six-dash harness race cards on Friday and Monday afternoons which will feature the Empire Driving Club Stakes and the New York State Sire Stake races.

Labor Day will open up with the English Horse Show which for the first time this year will be an accredited show.

Featured daily on the stage will be a five-act program of variety acts including a 70-foot-high breather.

Among the free exhibits will be the largest poultry show at any of New York State's county fairs, the old blacksmith shop, antique farm machinery, railroad museum, Scouting, 4-H, American Legion, Granges, school work and farm animals.

Poetry Reading Scheduled

Poets Michael Berryhill and Hugh Seidman will read their recent work Tuesday, Sept. 2 at 8 p.m. at the A-frame Church, Route 212, Woodstock.

Michael Berryhill, whose poems are published in American Review and other small magazines, teaches creative writing and literature at Vassar.

Hugh Seidman, a winner of the Yale Younger Poets Series, has published two books of poetry: Collecting Evidence, and Blood Lord (Doubleday). He is presently writer-in-residence at the City College of CUNY.

The reading, free to the public, is made possible by a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts. All are welcome.

Benefit Church Supper Scheduled at Olivebridge

The annual ham and oyster stew supper sponsored by the Olivebridge United Methodist Church is back after a year's absence. The congregation invites its members, friends, and the general public to this popular supper on Friday evening, October 17. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DeWitt are co-chairpersons of the events.

There will be two servings to allow more people to attend this popular event. The first serving will be at 5 p.m. and the second at 6:30 p.m. Hamemade apple pie will be the finishing touch to a meal of oyster stew, baked ham, and all the trimmings. A raw oyster appetizer will be available to all who wish it.

Because the public's response this supper has always been enthusiastic. Tickets must be purchased in advance. Jack Curci, ticket chairman, may be contacted at Shokan for tickets. Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt, also of Shokan, are available for ticket information.

Many members of the congregation of the Olivebridge United Methodist Church will be working to make this supper enjoyable for all who attend. The proceeds will be used in various areas of the work of the Church including the United Methodist Church Pension Fund.

Miliza Korjus from one of the elaborate scenes in "The Great Waltz," the 1938 film biography of Johann Strauss Jr., to be shown as part of the Strauss Festival in Ancram at the Johann Strauss Atheneum Saturday and Sunday at 2, 4 and 8 p.m. The celebration of the 150th birthday of Strauss will continue to feature films and live programs through the end of October. It will be culminated with a grand ball to be held in the Ancram Opera House on the exact day of his birth, Saturday, Oct. 25.

Davis-Lakin Vows Exchanged

Christine M. Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Davis of Hurley, became the bride of Paul Lakin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kenneth Houghton Lakin of Manchester, England, on August 2 at St. Augustine's Church in Manchester.

The Rev. J. Kevin Kinney officiated at the ceremony, assisted by Canon Frank Wright of the Anglican Cathedral, Manchester.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white silk organza, fashioned with a square neckline, lace bodice and angel sleeves edged in lace.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Veronica A. Lakin, sister of the bridegroom. Best man was Noel Lakin, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception was given at the Landsdowne Hotel in Manchester.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School and Lenox Hill School of Nursing in New York City. She was employed in the Coronary Care Unit of Kingston Hospital before leaving for England. She is also a state registered nurse of England.

Her husband is an alumnus of the University of Manchester and is a senior associate engineer with IBM, United Kingdom, Ltd. in Havant, England.

The couple left on a wedding trip to the Devon Coast. They will reside in Havant.

Baked goods, vegetable plants, home articles, jewelry, books, records are among the numerous items to be included in the annual bazaar at St. Peter's Church in Rosendale this weekend. Displaying some of the many articles are (l-r) Lottie Burns, the Rev. Walter T. Kearns, assistant pastor; Helen Banach, home articles chairman; Mary Beatovic, Eugene Dmoch. Also participating are Marie Ackerman, Marge Schwarz, Ann Schwedner, Frances Liggotti, Gert Steeley, Carolyn Reposky, Elizabeth Schwall and Bernadette Rubbufo. (Freeman photo)

Annual Bazaar Slated At St. Peter's, Rosendale; Committees, Booths Announced

The annual Bazaar of St. Peter's Church in Rosendale will be held this Saturday and Sunday on the church grounds on James Street.

According to James McNamara, chairman of the event, activities will proceed "rain or shine," with indoor space available in case of bad weather.

Jack Callahan is serving as co-chairman, together with Bill DePauw, who doubles as refreshment booth chairman.

Activities on Saturday will begin with the food sale and home articles sale at 10 a.m., with lunch available at noon. Other bazaar booths will open that evening at 6 p.m. On Sunday, all events begin at 7 p.m. On each night, there will be award presentations at 9:30 and 11 o'clock.

The Louis Muenkel family will supervise the soda and ice cream booth;

Marge Dalton will preside over the goldfish booth; and the Robert Norton family will organize the homemade plush booth. Ed Formica's family will run the toy booth, the Carl Mihm family is in charge of kiddie car rides, and Mary McNamara and Billy McNamara will supervise the lamp booth and china pitch, respectively. The eighth grade class at St. Peter's School will be in charge of both the wishing well and the children's toy booth.

Workers at other booths will include Attilio Contini, Joe Hassett, James Campion, William Ferry, Frank Klepeis, Pete Benincasa, Warren Prandoni, William St. Clair, Frank Negro and Fred Schwedner.

James Fay and Addie Hassett will be cashiers, Jim Bottstine will handle general repairs, and Fran Connell will do electrical work. Gabe Kajeckas supervises publicity, Marie Ackerman organizes the fund-raising project, and Eugene Dmoch is in charge of the gate and awards.

The pastor of the church, Rev. Gerard Bliss, said: "We have always been grateful to the community for supporting this annual event which helps to defray our mounting expenses. Our fuel bills especially have skyrocketed, so we hope our friends will support the bazaar."

DEAR ABBY: I'm going with a wonderful guy named Morris. He's a terrific fellow, but he has one fault. When he kisses me, he kisses me, he gets carried away and bites my lips. After an evenwith Morris, my lips are bruised and raw—sometimes they even bleed!

My mother keeps asking me what's the matter with my lips, and I keep making up excuses. (They're "chapped.")

Will you please tell me how I can get Morris to take it easy when he kisses me? I have told him a dozen times not to be so rough, but he forgets. This is no put-on.

SORE LIPS

DEAR SORE: When Morris "forgets" and gets rough, give him a good klop on the back to remind him to ake it easy. And keep it up until he's conditioned.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 34-year-old widow who fell in love with a married man. (I'll call him "Rex.") He has two children. We've been seeing each other for 18 months, and I love him dearly. Rex says he loves me and needs me, and as soon as he's financially able to swing it, he'll divorce his wife and marry me.

Rex still lives with his wife, but claims that he has had nothing to do with her since he met me. Here is the part that just about drove me to suicide: He told me yesterday that his wife is now pregnant! He swears it isn't his, but how can I be sure?

I have an 8-year-old son who worships Rex, and if I were to break it off with him, it would be almost as though my son were losing another father because Rex treats him like a son.

How much longer should I give Rex?

LOVES HIM

DEAR LOVES: The advice from here is to say goodbye now and to tell Rex that you don't want to see his face until he is a free man.

In the meantime, you'd better start planning your life without him because as I see it, that is what you will have to do eventually.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the man whose wife is driving him up the wall by her constant use of "you know" in every sentence.

Rejoice! At least "you know" implies that you can comprehend what is being said.

We have a brother who ends almost every sentence with "understand?" This leaves one with the feeling that his mental capacity to follow a simple conversation is somewhat in doubt.

Far better "you know" than "understand?"

HIS SISTER, UNDERSTAND?

DEAR SISTER: I understand, you know.

CONFIDENTIAL TO K IN LOUISVILLE, KY: The authenticity of a painting is like a woman's virtue: Once questioned, it is never quite the same.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Plans Reunion

The 51st Pioneer Infantry Association will hold its 52nd annual reunion September 6-7 at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston. There will be a buffet dinner at 7 p.m. on Saturday along with a business session. A meeting is slated Sunday at 11 a.m. followed by dinner at 1 p.m.

Catskill-New York City aqueduct in 1917. Many others lived in this area at the time. Although several have since passed away and the circle is getting smaller, these reunions are eagerly anticipated by the World War I veterans and their families.

A number of Kingston residents were among this well-known outfit that guarded the

MICHELE DIDOMENICO

Trophy Winner
In Teen Age Contest

Miss Michele DiDomenico, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Camillo DiDomenico of the Town of Rosendale, was awarded a trophy as the fourth runner-up in the recent Miss Teen Age contest held at the Ulster County Fair in New Paltz.

She also was awarded a check from St. Peter's Women's Auxiliary for leadership and dramatics when she was graduated from St. Peter's School in Rosendale.

Her sponsors in the pagent were Lil Fulton Fish and Farmer Mart, both of New Paltz.

Beef Spotlighted
As Specials

Because of a softer undertone in the wholesale beef market, beef will be "spotlighted" as specials at most retail meat counters, according to Commissioner John S. Dyson of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

The Department's Consumer and Market Information Service reported that the more economical buys of beef will be corned beef from $1.19 to $1.49, beef ground chuck from 88¢ to 99¢, beef ground round at $1.17, stew beef from $1.29 to $1.48, beef liver from 58¢ to 68¢ and frankfurters from 88¢ to $1.29. Steaks on feature well worth shopping for are sirloin steak from $1.59 to $1.80, T-bone from $1.69 to $1.98, porterhouse from $1.79 to $1.90, beef round steak from $1.29 to $1.79, beef shoulder for London broil from $1.59 to $1.69, and beef round cubed steak from $1.69 to $1.79. As for roasts, look for beef sirloin tip roast from $1.38 to $1.59, in one area beef round roast from $1.28 to $1.38, and in the central and western areas rib roast, depending on cut and trim, from $1.49 to $1.69.

Pork features will not be as predominant as beef. However, specials can be found on smoked ham shank portion—water added—from 88¢ to 89¢.

Daley Cleared

NEWBURGH — The general executive board of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters has upheld a decision by Teamster Joint Council 16 of New York City which clears Local 445 Secretary-Treasurer Theodore G. Daley of charges that he misappropriated almost $12,000 in union funds from 1972 and 1973.

A spokesman at Local 445 headquarters in Newburgh confirmed the decision, but said that neither the union or Daley would have any official comment. "The verdict speaks for itself," he said.

Daley and three other union trustees had been accused of using the union funds to travel to Florida for meetings with former Teamsters boss James Hoffa in 1972 and 1973. The charges were leveled by seven rank and file members of Local 445.

The charges were originally dismissed against all four in February by Joint Council 16 because of insufficient evidence. The accusers appealed the decision to the general executive board in Washington, D.C., which announced its decision clearing Daley and the three others this week.

Also exonerated were union trustees Kenneth McCauley, John Casey and Donald Johnson.

Local 445 has jurisdiction over a seven county area from Westchester to Ulster County. Daley has been secretary-treasurer of the Mid-Hudson local for the past 20 years, and is up for reelection in December.

Slayton Tumor Found Benign

HOUSTON (UPI) — America's oldest astronaut, Donald "Deke" Slayton, has won his second medical battle — this one against a lung tumor. His doctors say he soon should be fit enough to make another flight into space.

Like the heart irregularity which grounded him for 13 years, the tumor in Slayton's left lung wasn't as bad as doctors first thought.

Because of Slayton's age and because he smoked heavily for 30 years until he quit New Year's Day, 1973, cancer specialists had said there was a better than 50-50 chance the tumor was malignant. Instead, they found the growth was benign — non-dangerous.

The last active member of the original seven Mercury astronauts thus has another chance to fly in space, a dream he finally fulfilled last month as a pilot on the joint U.S.-Soviet orbital mission.

Slayton, 51, had little to say after the 2 1/2 hour operation Tuesday at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

"That's good," Dr. Charles Berry, the former chief astronaut physician, quoted Slayton as saying when told the tumor was benign.

One doctor said Slayton's wife, Marjory, told him: "Thank God. It's finally over."

Slayton was grounded from the only previous chance he had to fly in space, in 1962, because of a minor heart irregularity. He fought the grounding for 10 years before doctors were convinced he could return to flight status.

A three-doctor team headed by Dr. Clifton Mountain, a cancer specialist, removed the pencil eraser-sized tumor. A pathologist in the operating room quickly checked the lung cells for malignancy.

"Frozen sections of the nodule revealed no evidence of malignancy," Berry said. "His hospital stay is anticipated to be 10-12 days."

"I fully expect him to qualify to return to flight status."

July Index Up 1.7 Percent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The index of leading economic indicators jumped 1.7 percent in July for the longest continuous, upward climb in 2 1/2 years, the Commerce Department said today.

The July increase followed "a very strong upward revision" of 1 percent in the June index, a Commerce spokesman said.

The index of leading indicators is considered by many economists to foretell the direction the economy will take in the months ahead.

The July increase was the fifth consecutive monthly gain, the longest sustained upward movement in the index since the nine-month period ending February, 1973.

The index stood at 100.7 in July, up from a revised 99.0 in June, the commerce report said.

Last month's preliminary report for June showed an increase of 1.9 percent, but the revision boosted the gain to 2.9 percent.

The spokesman said the sharp upward revision for June occurred because layoffs declined while inventories and new businesses were growing — all good economic signs.

The index climbed again in July on the strength of businesses increasing their orders for new goods. Higher orders indicates more production will be needed, which will lead to fresh job opportunities for the nation's 7.8 million unemployed.

Also helping to boost the index upward were a half-hour gain in the length of the average workweek; an 0.93 percent increase in cash, securities and other liquid assets; higher stockmarket prices, and rising building permits.

The index was changed in May so that the series reported today is relatively new. Under the pre-May index, the July gain was an even stronger 2.9 percent, Commerce said.

Union Joins Bank

Officers of Local 806, IBEW, are shown following their decision to enroll the local in the Ulster County Blood Bank. Shown (L to R) are Sal Accardi, president; Gerald Diers, assistant business manager; Morris Miller, business manager, and William Fischang, vice president. More than 100 union local members were enrolled, making them eligible for the many benefits of the program available for all members. Organizations wishing to enroll are asked to call the blood bank office at 339-5525 for further information. (Freeman photo)

Con Ed Probe Is Called For

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Congressman Richard L. Ottinger (D-Westchester) recently requested that the Federal Trade Commission conduct an investigation into Con Edison's claims that the company saved its customers $95 million during 1974 because of alleged fuel cost savings at the Indian Point nuclear power plants on the Hudson River.

"Con Ed's claims sound good on their face," Ottinger said, "but I have been concerned during recent months that they were based on an abstract, unrealistic set of figures that did not include anything more than direct fuel costs, ignoring taxes, interest charges and operations and maintenance costs. The analysis released today by the Council on Economic Priorities ("Responding to Con Edison: An Analysis of the 1974 Costs of Indian Point and Alternatives," by Charles Komanoff) confirms my doubts." The Congressman's request to FTC Chairman Lewis Engman was for a thorough investigation into claims by Con Ed and other utility companies relating to nuclear power cost savings and for the Commission to determine whether there may have been violations of laws governing claims which might mislead the public.

In his letter to the FTC, Ottinger said, "Should the commission determine that Con Edison or any other corporation is in violation of sections of the U.S. Code related to misleading the public, I assume that appropriate enforcement steps will be taken."

The analysis of Con Ed's claims was prepared by the Council on Economic Priorities at Ottinger's request, after he had heard Con Ed officials speak at a breakfast meeting in Washington last February. The Council is a New York-based public interest organization concerned with corporate social responsibility and with the quality of American life as affected by corporate actions.

The Congressman also sent letters, together with copies of the Council's report, to Federal Power Commission Chairman John Nassikas and to New York Public Service Commission Chairman Alfred Kahn because of the interest of their agencies in utility costs.

Legislator Answers Charge

NEW PALTZ

"Thomas Nyquist should do a little research before sounding off on the Ulster County Legislature," Louis H. Bevier (R-Dist. 8) declared today regarding state purchase of Lake Minnewaska property.

Bevier said that the Democratic candidate for a post on the county board in Dist. 8 "apparently doesn't keep up with what the county legislature has done in the past."

"It appears," Bevier said, "that Nyquist in urging the legislature to press for state purchase of the land, is 'making the same request for action which the legislature already took six years ago.'"

Bevier recalled that on Nov. 13, 1969, the board passed a unanimous resolution favoring purchase by the state of the Lake Minnewaska resort property and its conversion into a state park providing outdoor recreational facilities to the people of the county.

Pointing to Nyquist's request for compensation for loss in revenue from property taxes by the purchase, Bevier again recalled that the November 1969 resolution contained just such a stipulation.

Specifically the resolution stated that if the Minnewaska property is purchased by the state that the property either remain on the assessment rolls as taxable property or that annual payments in lieu of taxes be made to the municipalities and school districts.

Bevier said that the resolution is on file in many state offices as well as in the Ulster County Office Building and that it would be redundant to re-hash the same material.

School Board Session Set

KINGSTON

The Board of Education of Kingston City Schools Consolidated will award bids for asphalt paving at the Brigham School and the central administration building when it meets Thursday night at 8 p.m. in the Crown Street administrative center.

Other business to be brought up by the Business Management Committee chaired by Fred Hofbauer includes the second reading of a resolution to change the reimbursement of employees who use their own vehicles for authorized travel and the adoption of a tax list and warrant.

Other matters to be heard by the board include reports from the Personnel Committee, headed by W. James Penrose; the Communications Committee, chaired by Ronald Meyer; the Student Services Committee, under Mrs. Josephine McKean; the Building Committee, headed by Mrs. Evelyn Corsones; and the Planning and Review Committee, headed by Mrs. Doris Mulvin.

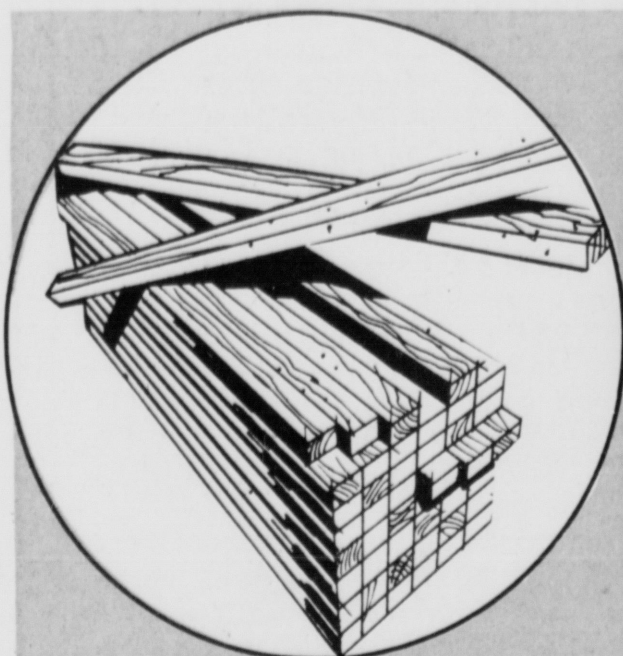

The board will also hear a report by Louis A. Salzmann, superintendent of schools.

SPORTS TODAY

Borg, Nastase Winners

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Sweden's Bjorn Borg won a battle of the topspins over close friend Guillermo Vilas Tuesday night to take his second straight U.S. Pro Tennis Championships title, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, at Longwood Cricket Club.

Borg, 19, who beat Tom Okker in straight sets for last year's U.S. Pro crown, played fairly error-free tennis while Vilas was crippled by poor first serves. The 23-year-old lefty suffered six double faults in the opening set and was unable to make good his first serves in the final two sets.

Borg easily handled the slower, spinning second serves and consistently scored with forehand and backhand passing shots.

Vilas, a lawyer's son from Mar del Plata, rallied from 0-5 in the second set to win four straight games. But after taking a 40-15 lead in the 10th game, Vilas fell apart, losing the final four points. He gave away the set on a hard forehand that was very long.

The two friends, who frequently practice together on the tour, played even through the fifth game of the final set with Borg taking a 3-2 lead. But again, the sixth game, Vilas' strokes deserted him after he had built a 40-15 edge on his serve.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (UPI) — Ilie Nastase heads for the U.S. Open championships in Forest Hills today buoyed with his 7-6, 6-1 win over Bob Hewitt in the men's singles final of the $50,000 Tennis Week Open tournament.

On his way to the victory at the Orange Tennis Club here Tuesday night, the flamboyant Romanian star had to battle with poor court conditions caused by rain which forced a two-day delay in the tournament and a new clay topping to be placed on the surface Tuesday.

Nastase won a total of $10,362 in the tournament, $9,200 for winning the singles crown.

Hewitt was his usual uncontrollable self in the final after a rather quiet week in which he earned four victories without losing a set. Bad bounces and poor footing caused Hewitt to lose his temper. He belted the ball several times, hitting a spectator on one occasion.

Rasmussen Is Another Of the Baby Birds

Harry Rasmussen is another of those "baby birds" of the St. Louis Cardinals who behaves like a wise old owl when it comes to pitching under pressure.

Rasmussen, a talented young right-hander who pitched in the Texas League last season and was called up by the Cardinals a month ago, won an important game for St. Louis Tuesday night when he stopped the Houston Astros 2-1 on five hits in the second game of a doubleheader. The victory enabled the Cardinals to complete a sweep of the twinbill and move to within three games of first place Pittsburgh in the National League East.

Rasmussen, who with John Denny and Bob Forsch form a nucleus for the Cardinals' "Big Three" of the future, also provided the key hit in the nightcap when he singled home Mike Tyson with what proved to be the winning run in the second inning.

The Astros scored their only run in the first inning on doubles by Jose Cruz and Enos Cabell but Ron Fairly homered for St. Louis in the second, and after Tyson tripled, Rasmussen came through with a single. He then held Houston to only three hits the rest of the way in posting his third victory in five decisions.

The Cardinals won the opener 10-9 on Reggie Smith's run-scoring single in the 12th inning after St. Louis had battled back from a seven-run deficit to tie the score in the eighth.

"If you get a lot of runs in the first game, usually the second game will be low scoring and vice versa," said Rasmussen, who lowered his earned run average to 2.76 in eight appearances. "But I wasn't thinking about the first game. I was throwing straight as string in the first four innings of my game. I didn't have that much stuff."

The Astros, who had 20 hits in the opener, would certainly argue that point.

In the opener, Bake McBride scored the winning run in the 12th when he singled, moved to second on a sacrifice bunt and scored on Smith's single.

The Cardinals scored six runs in the seventh and two in the eighth on Mike Tyson's single to put the game into extra innings.

Beman Says Players Event Approaching Major Status

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (UPI) — PGA Tournament Players Division Commissioner Deane Beman says he thinks the Tournament Players Championship is showing positive signs toward establishing itself as a major tournament as it prepares to settle into its scheduling pattern beginning this winter.

"I think we made great strides last weekend," Beman said of last weekend's TPC event in Fort Worth, Tex. "We were happy with our performance and felt there was a strong indication that the players liked what they saw."

Beman and officials of the Inverrary Golf Classic announced Tuesday that prize money for the third TPC, to be held at Inverrary in February, had been increased to $300,000. This matches the Westchester Golf Classic with the highest total purse money for a single event on the tour.

Prize money to the TPC winner will be $60,000, Beman announced.

Beginning with the next TPC, the event will be held the first part of the year in what Beman called "a warm weather situation," during the Florida or California segments of the tour.

"We'll be moving around for the next few years," Beman said. "We haven't made a decision as yet whether we'll eventually place the event in a single location. Right now we'll continue to move around."

He said a site for the 1977 TPC has not yet been chosen. The commissioner said, however, his association was going ahead with efforts to have the TPC gain universal acceptance as a major golf championship.

"You just can't stand up and decree on tournament as being a major one, but you got to have the dedication to make it so," Beman said. "I feel the ingredients are there. The players are accepting the tournament as a major one and we're hoping the public will accept it. We're doing everything the quality of a major championship." 6

Beman said it was not the desire of the TPC to take away the glory of the Masters Tournament, traditionally the first major event of the tour season.

"We didn't talk to them (Masters' officials) before we decided to move the TPC to the early part of the year," Beman said. "We don't intend to be a threat to them."

The TPC is one of the tour's "designated" events where all the top players are required to compete.

The tournament replaces the 1976 Inverrary Golf Classic on the tour schedule, but the tournament will have the same sponsors and executive staff as the Inverrary event.

Catfish Hooks A's Again

Royals 4-2; Orioles 3-3

George Brett's run-scoring double in the sixth inning was the big blow of the first game in which Kansas City prevented Jim Palmer from becoming the majors' first 20-game winner of the season. Dennis Leonard went six innings for his 10th win. Baltimore won the nightcap when Mark Belanger hit a tiebreaking homer in the fifth inning and scored on a wild pitch by Steve Busby in the eighth.

Rangers 3, Tigers 2
Gaylord Perry went the inning distance for Texas, allowing nine hits and striking out 10, to win his 14th game. He has allowed only seven earned runs in his last 88 innings. Dave Moates' one-out single drove in Lenny Randle with the winning run.

Twins 2, Brewers 1
Minnesota's Dave Goltz pitched a seven-hitter for a 13th win and dealt Milwaukee its 10th loss in its last 11 games. Dave McKay drove the Twins' first run with a sacrifice fly and Steve Braun singled in the other tally.

Japanese Firm Buys Giants

TOKYO (UPI) — The Sankei Sports Newspaper said in an exclusive front page story Wednesday that Seibu, one of Japan's leading industrial firms, had purchased the San Francisco Giants.

But the formal announcement of the deal will not be made until after the close of the major league season, the newspaper said.

UPI Sports Editor Milton Richman reported in his Sports Parade Column Monday that Horace C. Stoneham, president of the National Exhibition Co., parent company of the Giants, and a group of wealthy Japanese industrialists from Tokyo shook hands over the $17 million transaction three weeks ago.

Stoneham did not deny the UPI report but said negotiations were still going on and that he had not come to a decision.

The Sankei newspaper said Seibu officials here at this point have denied the transaction. But it said Stoneham had recently told its correspondent in San Francisco that he had reached an agreement with Japanese industrialists and that he had let out the name "Seibu."

The newspaper said that Seibu and its affiliated Kokudo Keikaku firm, which deals primarily in leisure facilities, believe they can make the Giants a paying business but they were attracted by the Giants' hotel-resort complex at Casa Grande, Ariz.

Seibu sees great possibilities in the development of the Casa Grande complex as a tourist center, the newspaper said.

The newspaper said that the Seibu group started operating a hotel in Toronto in July last year but it has no interest in the United States. Seibu opened a department store in Los Angeles but sold it 10 years ago.

The Seibu group has two large department stores in Tokyo, two suburban railways lines in the Tokyo area, a big sports complex in Karuizawa where the world speed skating champions have been held and operates the Naeba Prince hotel and ski slopes in central Japan, where the World Cup ski races were held in 1973 and 1975. It also owns several golf courses and altogether has more than 100 affiliated business organizations.

The newspaper said Yoshiaki Tsutsumi, president of the Seibu group, had recently become greatly interested in baseball and had intimated he would like to organize a professional baseball club sometime in the future.

Seibu's purchase of the Giants does not need the approval of Japan's Baseball Commission because Seibu is an industrial firm. The Commission's approval would be needed if the purchase were made by a Japanese professional baseball club, according to a Commission spokesman.

Unknown Eliminates Campbell In Amateur

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Jane Marie Kelley will have to wait just a little longer for that honeymoon her husband promised her.

Right now, he's too busy playing golf.

"She's a very, very nice girl to put up with all of this," says Tom Kelley, a 23-year-old auto salesman from Fort Wayne, Ind., who was married last Saturday.

Kelley promised his wife a vacation after he got done playing in the U.S. Amateur Golf Championship and she didn't mind because, after all, he didn't figure to be here too long.

He drew 1964 champion Bill Campbell, making his 32nd appearance in this championship, for a first round opponent. Campbell had not lost his opening match since 1961 and had survived the 36-hole cut the eight years this tournament was contested at stroke play.

But Tuesday, Kelley surprised Jane Marie, Campbell, and just about everybody else here, eliminating Campbell 1 up in the most shocking of the first day's results.

"Neither of us played real well," Kelley said. "But I played well enough to win, and that's all you have to do in match play. I had nothing to lose. I was in a situation where if I beat him, that's great, and if I didn't, I had sort of an excuse."

Even at 52 and playing in exhausting, near-100 degree heat and high humidity, Campbell still is an impressive opponent. He was a quarter-finalist last year, a semifinalist the year before, he recently won his 15th West Virginia Amateur title and this spring he maintained an incredible, unbeaten record in Walker Cup singles matches over 25 years.

"It was an honor just playing with him," Kelley said. "He's a fine gentleman and a legend."

They were all even after 15 holes and Kelley then went ahead for good, blasting from a bunker to within 10 feet and making the putt for a birdie four at the 530-yard 16th. They halved the last two holes with bogeys, Campbell barely missing a six-foot putt on the final green to end it.

This is the first appearance in the Amateur for Kelley, an Indiana University graduate. When he gets done here—and after winning Tuesday he sounded as if he'd like to stay a while—he'll finally take Jane Marie on that vacation. "I have to give my wife a little time," he said.

They had been engaged for nine months before the wedding, which was delayed "because we had a problem finding a weekend that didn't conflict with a golf tournament," Kelley said.

Aside from the loss by Campbell and a somewhat surprising defeat by Maryland Open champion Marty West, who dropped the final five holes to lose 1 up to Bob Young, the University of Georgia golf captain, the first round went according to form.

Andy Bean of the University of Florida, the Dixie and Western Amateur champ, scored the day's easiest victory, 8 and 6 over Gary Tinney of Pensacola, Fla.

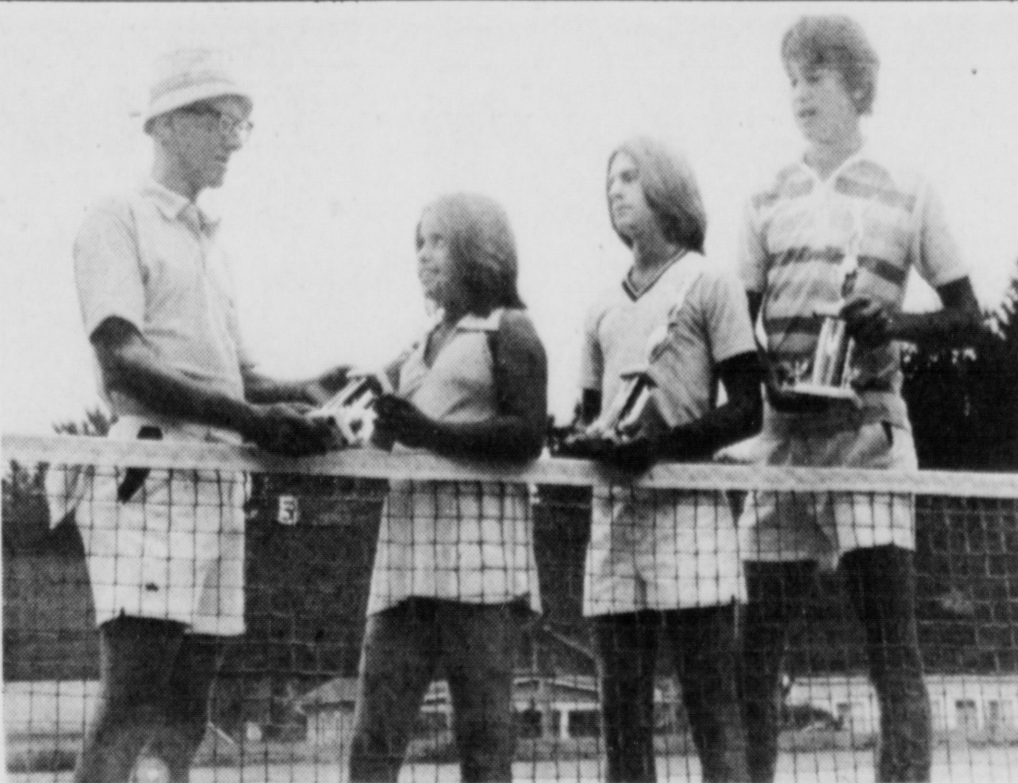

Curtis Strange of Wake Forest, the 1974 NCAA champion and top pointgetter for the U.S. Walker Cup side this year, also won big, 5 and 4 over Richard Peterson of Cincinnati.

Other winners included ranking collegians Keith Fergus of Houston, Lance Ten Broeck of Texas, Skeeter Heath of East Tennessee State, Peter Jacobsen of Oregon and Tom Jones of Oklahoma State. Jay Sigel, the seven-time Pennsylvania Amateur champion, and New England champ Bill Mallon also won.

Brigham Young All America Mike Reid and veteran Charles Harrison of Atlanta were beaten, Harrison losing 1 up to 16-year-old John Kircher of Pittsford, N.Y., youngest player in the field.

Delays caused by players looking for balls in the fiendish rough and an unusual number of extra-hole matches set the late groups back an hour and a half and caused four matches to be suspended until this morning by darkness.

Fifty-six players drew first round byes including 1972 winner Vinny Giles, the current British Amateur champion and a member at the tournament site, the Country Club of Virginia, current NCAA champ Jay Haas of Wake Forest, Pacific-8 conference champion Scott Simpson of Southern California and Walker Cup players Dick Sidewick and John Grace, runner-up in last year's U.S. Amateur.

14 In Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UPI) — With the race favorite coming off a poor showing, a field of some 14 trotters was expected to be entered today for Saturday's Hambletonian harness race classic for 3-year-olds.

Some observers expected that a bad day at Indianapolis last Saturday for Bonefish, who threw a shoe in the first heat and finished 9-5, might entice some wavering owners to plunk down the final $2,000 entry fee by the 10 a.m. deadline today. Earlier forecasts were for a field of 12 to 14 entries.

There was speculation that two fillies, Exclusive Way and Meadow Bright, might choose the richer race with the colts instead of the all-girl Hambletonian filly division.

Regardless of the number of entries, the purse will easily top last year's Hambletonian pay of $160,150 when Christopher T. trotted home the winner at the urging of veteran driver Billy Haughton, who captured his first Hambo win.

A field of 14 would mean a purse of $234,180. The purse can be determined by adding or subtracting $2,000 for each horse above or below that number.

Haughton believes he can beat Bonefish with Glasgow this year. Glasgow won the Horseman's Futurity at Indianapolis last Saturday in 1:59 after being bothered with splints. Glasgow did not race as a 2-year-old.

Noble Rogue, with 4-3 finishes at Indianapolis, also indicated he will bear watching in the Hambletonian. He was rated just behind Bonefish as a 2-year-old but then got top drawer credentials.

But Bonefish, trained and driven by Stanley Dancer, a two-time winner of the big race, has a lot of things going for him including the best time of the year, 1:58.1, and is expected to be the favorite Saturday.

Ali-Frazier Yawn, Yawn

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — At first it was muffled and distant, but then the rumbling grew louder and louder until there couldn't possibly be any mistake. Leaning back in a chair, listening to the noisy commotion drawing nearer and nearer, Joe Frazier never so much as moved a muscle or changed expression.

Before he could even see the cause of this sudden boisterous intrusion, Joe Frazier sensed who was behind it. He had an idea of the man responsible for the rumus, the one barreling in now in this fancy midtown restaurant.

Joe Frazier knew it was Muhammad Ali because the whole thing had been rigged up beforehand. Not by Frazier. He doesn't go in for such charades. But Ali is big for them. He had told those doing the publicity for the Sept. 30 heavyweight title fight in Manila he was going to break in on Frazier's get-together with the media. Frazier, naturally, had been tipped beforehand. He had said it wouldn't bother him a bit and he was showing that plainly now.

Ali had burst into the room chanting his usual gibberish and he was accompanied by Angelo Dundee, his trainer, Drew "Bundini" Brown, his cornerman, and a number of others in his official party. Ali wore navy blue t-shirts with the words "gorilla" and "Manila" stenciled on them, and this was obviously designed to agitate Frazier. Ali has been referring to him as "the gorilla from Manila" ever since the contracts for the fight were signed.

Still seated, Joe Frazier watched Ali march right up to him and never budged. He was smiling as a matter of fact, possibly because the whole production had all the aspects of one of those old movie reruns you see on television after midnight.

"We're gonna stick 'em!" Drew Brown kept saying over and over again, in the manner of a revivalist, looking directly at Joe Frazier no more than two feet away.

Ali simply repeated the same thing Drew Brown said and now both leaned across the long wooden table Frazier was sitting at. Frazier kept smiling, saying nothing, then stood up. When he did, Ali threw jabs at him, purposely missing, by no more than a half inch or so, and when that maneuver failed to get much reaction, Ali put his fist on Frazier's forehead and Frazier, laughing all the time, brushed it off.

"Don't you fella see how scared I am?" he asked, still laughing, one raising his hands, palms outward and fingers extended to show they weren't shaking at all.

Ali paid no attention. He just kept babbling away. Seeing he was getting nowhere, and worse yet, some of those present were beginning to listen more to Joe Frazier than they were to him, Ali put both his hands on Frazier's shoulders and pushed him backwards. Not hard, easy. So easy, that Frazier, busy talking to someone, hardly noticed.

Ultimately Joe Frazier turned his attention to Ali, only inches away. Frazier stuck his chin out at him and Ali kept shooting those near-miss jabs of his.

Frazier leaned over the table. He wanted to make sure Ali heard him.

"Kiss my —," Joe Frazier hissed at Muhammad Ali, laughing so hard, he had all he could do to stop.

M-L Advances To 'B' Finals

KINGSTON
McCardle-Leahy Funeral Home trounced Peek-N-Hollow 11-5 Tuesday to move into the championship finals against Anchorage in the City Slo Pitch B Division.

Anchorage gained the finals by eking out a 10-9 squeaker over the Daily Freeman.

In AA action Sea Deli overwhelmed The Place 18-5 with a barrage of 20 hits.

McCardle-Leahy shattered a 5-5 tie with a six-run outburst in the sixth inning. Ed Jordan led off with a single. Then came a walk and Mike Jordan's double to deep right scoring Jordan and Letus. Jordan raced to third while Mike Hart held the ball. Successive singles by Bill Cuff and Jim Sass, a long double by George Kidd and an infield out accounted for three more runs.

Jim Sass had a perfect day for the winners with four singles. George Kidd, Steve Letus and Ed Jordan had two singles each. Don Breitenstein slammed two doubles and a single for the losers. Pete Perry added a single and double.

Play Woodstock Seniors

WOODSTOCK Don Ferdon, Dick Bradley and Inger Rusk are the 1975 senior golf champions at Woodstock Country Club.

Ferdon, a retired U.S. Army officer, fashioned 40-42-82 to capture the Class A Men's title, while Dick Bradley put together the same total with 43-39-82 to win the Class B title.

Mrs. Rusk, a 14-handicap player, carded a net 86-14-72, for the women's crown. The women's division bases its seniors championship on net score. Mrs. Rusk, however, left no doubt about who's champion by posting both low gross (86) and low net (72).

Low net honors in the men's division went to Harold Dungey with 66 in Class A and Roy Stoothoff in Class B with 69.

The results:
WOMEN'S DIVISION
Inger Rusk, 86-14-72; Louise Fitzsimmons, 96-21-75; Peg Sharpe, 98-22-76; Ida Kores, 99-22-77; Peter Turnbull, 103-25-78; Arnold Broggi, 99-21-78.

Frank Lane: Baseball Is Missing the Boat

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball is missing the boat, says Frank Lane, and as usual, he's right.

He's talking about the system of electing players to the Hall of Fame, and about the rap former Cleveland outfielder Earl Averill took at that system during his induction into the shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y., last week. Voted in by the special Veterans' Committee, Averill, 73, was appropriately grateful, but he also was angry over having to wait 34 years. He said there were countless others like him being passed over in favor of Johnny-come-latelies.

Frank Lane says Earl Averill is 100 percent right. What's more, he has an idea which he feels would rectify all that and benefit the players, the fans and baseball at the same time.

From Dallas, where he's scouting American League clubs for the California Angels, accumulating information so he can relay it along to club boss Harry Dalton for future player deals, Frank Lane was so enthusiastic about his idea, he sounded as if he was going to jump right through the telephone.

"My idea is to designate certain established stars as Hall of Fame nominees while they're still playing," said Lane. "In other words, each year the baseball writers would vote for certain players who in their judgement were Hall of Fame 'nominees.' No player would be eligible for nomination unless he had at least 10 years in the majors. And after a player was nominated, he'd automatically become eligible to be voted into the Hall of Fame itself three days after he officially retired as a player.

"These players not only would have the distinction of putting in their last few years as official Hall of Fame nominees, but the fans would have the added enjoyment of being able to see them while they're still playing and knowing beforehand they were headed for the Hall of Fame. Think of the advantage—to the players, to the fans and to baseball.

"If the player did something in his last few years to disqualify him from being elected, then the writers needn't automatically vote him in after he was finished. In that way, there would be no shoo-ins, and nobody could sneak in, either."

Frank Lane was just getting warmed up.

"Earl Averill was absolutely right, and I take my hat off to him for saying what he did up there in Cooperstown," said Lane. "He was a legitimate Hall of Famer. He had all the credentials. Why should he have been forced to wait more than 30 years to get in?"

"I believe in flowers for the living. Why do they have to wait for a man to die and then put flowers on his grave? You can't smell 'em after you're dead. Under the present voting rules, a Hall of Fame candidate can't be considered until he has been out of baseball five years, but why should that be? The game should promote its players while they're actually playing, not after they're all through. Sure the writers do the actual voting, but what's wrong with them accepting a suggestion. Even from someone in baseball. I think baseball missed the boat by not thinking of something like this before. Baseball is always talking about the need for added promotion."

Frank Lane makes a good point.

Everybody, no matter whether he's a ballplayer or not, appreciates recognition and there's no question it's always appreciated far more by the recipient while he's still is active rather than after he retires. I believe the fans would go for Lane's idea. Part of baseball's appeal is its history, and what gives the average fan more of a kick than to be able to say he's seeing history in the making?

Probably no man in baseball has made more trades than Frank Lane during his time as general manager of the Chicago White Sox, Cleveland Indians, St. Louis Cardinals, Kansas City A's and Milwaukee Brewers. A septuagenarian now, Lane rates consideration as a hall of Famer in his own right, but like everyone else, he has his own candidates. Two in fact, Larry MacPhail and Jimmie Dykes.

"Larry MacPhail introduced night baseball and was an innovator in the truest sense of the word," said Lane. "If he doesn't belong in the Hall of Fame, then no one does. And I think it's a crime Jimmie Dykes isn't in it. Look up his record. He played 22 years; had a solid .280 lifetime batting average; hit .421 in the 1929 World Series to lead the Philadelphia A's to a world championship and managed capably for more than 20 years after he was finished playing. As Earl Averill says—what does a guy have to do to get in? I'd like to see Jimmie receive the honor while he's still living. No one would appreciate it more than him; no one deserves it more."

Justice to Seek Town Council Post

MARBLETOWN
Marbletown Justice William Coler will seek the Republican nomination for town councilman when the party caucuses Thursday night at Quimby Auditorium on the campus of Ulster County Community College.

The town board voted last spring to remove town justices from the board, replacing them with two more councilmen.

This year there will be three councilmen up for election: Coler, and two newcomers, Ray Van Kleeck of Lamontville and Arnold Fedde of The Vly. Coler also lives in The Vly.

Coler has lived on Scarawan Road with his wife and three daughters for the past ten years. He has been deputy supervisor for the past two years. He was originally appointed to the position of town justice early in 1973 and then elected to a full-term in his own right that year.

Obituaries

Geary

Mary A. Geary, 90, of 63 Valentine Avenue, died Tuesday afternoon after a long illness. Miss Geary had worked as a practical nurse at the Ulster County TB Hospital until her retirement several years ago. She was a faithful communicant of St. Joseph's Church and a member of the Catholic Daughters of America. Born July 31, 1885 at Kingston, she was the daughter of the late Patrick and Johanna Regan Geary. Miss Geary is survived by two nieces: Mrs. Thomas (Cornelia) Carroll and Miss Margaret Garavan of Kingston. Entrusted to the care of the W. N. Connor Funeral Home, the cortege will form at Keyser Kingston Chapel, Albany and Manor Avenue, Friday at 9:30 a.m. and proceed to St. Joseph's Church where at 10 a.m. a Mass of the Resurrection will be sung. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. Friends may call at the Keyser Kingston Chapel, today 7-9 and Thursday 2-4 and 7-9 p.m.

Haynes

John (Ken) Haynes, lifelong resident of Highmount, died Monday evening at the New Paltz Nursing Home. Born Nov. 24, 1900 at Highmount, he was a son of the late Clair and Grace Olmstead Haynes. Mr. Haynes worked for the New York State Conservation Department as a fire observer for many years. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Fred (Carol) Reynoso of Mexico City; a brother, Glenworth Haynes of Kingston. Funeral services will be held Friday 11 a.m. from the E.B. Gormley Funeral Home, Main Street, Poughkeepsie, with the Rev. Ralph Darmstadt officiating. Burial will be in Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home today 7-9 and Thursday 2-4 and 7-9 p.m.

Bittner

Jason W. Bittner, infant son of William A. and Kathy Lukaszewski Bittner Jr., of 31 Esther Place, Lake Katrine, died at Benedictine Hospital Tuesday. Jason was born in Kingston, Feb. 28, 1975. In addition to his parents, he is survived by his grandparents: Mr. and Mrs. William A. Bittner Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Lukaszewski, all of Kingston. Funeral services will be held at the Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home Inc., 15 Downs Street, Thursday at 11 a.m. Burial will be in Montrose Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home this evening 7 to 9.

Concert

The final summer band concert of the year will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Academy Green Park.

The concerts are jointly sponsored by the City of Kingston and the Performance Trust Fund of Local 215, American Federation of Musicians. Admission is free.

Tonight's program, under director Lee E. Herrington, will feature such numbers as the "Coat of Arms" concert march; highlights from "My Fair Lady"; "The Marriage of Figaro," and a trumpet trio, "Trumpets Wild."

Following an intermission, the band will present "The Thunderer" march, "Poet and Peasant Overture," "From the Shores of the Mighty Pacific," "Balladair," "Beguine for Band," "College Life," a march, "Rock Slide" and "America."

History

An open meeting of the Mountain Top Historical Society at Hunter School Thursday will feature the tales and slides of Colonel Fred Hawkins about the venerable Onteora Club.

Artists originally called Catskill Mountain Camp and Cottage Colony, was established in 1887 and for years thereafter attracted artists, writers, actors, and musicians, including Maude Adams and Mark Twain. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

TO ALL REPUBLICANS IN THE TOWN OF ULSTER:

I want to express my sincere and heartfelt thanks to everyone who supported me for the office of Highway Superintendent of the Republican Caucus.

I am particularly grateful to my family and the many loyal friends who helped me during the campaign.

Also, I want to express my appreciation to each and every Republican who attended the Caucus because in doing so, you showed an interest in our party, our government and our town.

I pledge to all of you to continue my efforts to see that the Republican Party and the Town of Ulster offers the best possible government to all its citizens, for I truly believe that what is good for the Town of Ulster is good for the Republican Party.

Cordially and sincerely,
Allen (Skip) Stauble, Jr.

Your Astrograph

For Thursday, Aug. 28, 1975
 ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 Another day when you can reap a rich harvest. The key to a bigger bank account is found, in being practical in all your dealings.

 TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 The outcome of this day depends solely upon you. The quality of your efforts will determine the value of your rewards.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Your thinking is deep and pensive on this peaceful, quiet day. Put your serene mood to use. You'll benefit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Friends are reliable today. If you need their help just ask. They'll make a concerted effort to give it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 You'll probably feel you're in a rut today because the impetus needed to give your career that upward surge is lacking.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Plan your actions well now. Build a good foundation, then put each small brick in place.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
 Be firm and patient in any financial deals today. Don't let others hurry you beyond your chosen, comfortable pace.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
 The spotlight is on your mate or partner today. Don't let it bother you. You're still a key part of the team.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
 If you have in mind to start a diet or exercise program, this is a good time. You'll stick to what you begin now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 You're a good manager of those under your care today. If you make a point with a young person, the lesson will be long-remembered.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
 You'll get as big a kick out of entertaining today as will those you entertain. Even extra guests won't upset you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
 Mental gymnastics won't faze you today. You're good at weighing facts, figures and propositions.

Your Birthday

August 28, 1975

You'll strive to acquire a special type of knowledge which you'll put to practical use this coming year. It will come slow but be worth the effort.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Squeeze + 3-3 Break = Slam

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is a hand that decided an important team match some years ago. The contract was six spades at both tables and a heart was led to East's ace.

At one table a heart was led back. South discarded his seven of diamonds and proceeded to run off six trumps. At some stage West dropped the 10 of diamonds to wind up with all four of his clubs. Then when South came down to a two-card ending, he tried the diamond finesse and went down two.

At the other table East returned a diamond.

South was a mathematician and knew that a finesse represented a 50 percent chance while a 3-3 club break occurred only 36 percent of the time. Nevertheless, he went up with the ace of diamonds, played a couple of trumps, discarded his seven of diamonds on dummy's good heart and ran the rest of the trumps. The four-card ending squeezed West who had to let his king of diamonds go to keep four clubs and the slam made.

South explained that the squeeze possibility added to the chance that clubs might break 3-3 came to well over 50 percent but he had an extra reason for the play. He explained that East just hated to lead from kings.

'Grain Boycott Stays'...Meany

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany, who failed to win the promises he was seeking in a face-to-face meeting with President Ford, says longshoremen still will refuse to load American grain for shipment to the Soviet Union.

"The situation has not changed in any way whatsoever," Meany said as he strode to his limousine after a 90-minute White House meeting Tuesday with Ford, Labor Secretary John Dunlop and leaders of the AFL-CIO maritime unions.

Asked if the longshoremen's boycott would continue, he replied emphatically: "Yes, sir."

Meany, a staunch foe of détente, went to the White House demanding promises the recent sales of nearly 10 million tons of grain to Russia will not raise domestic prices or hurt U.S. shipping interests. Without those assurances, he said, the boycott would not be lifted.

He indicated he had received more information during the meeting, but no such assurances.

But Meany and White House press secretary Ron Nessen said the meeting had produced one thing — a promise of more meetings between union and administration officials, possibly even including the President.

The White House issued a statement Nessen said was agreed upon by all the participants. The statement described it as a "preliminary" meeting on the issues of "grain exports, living costs and maritime issues."

"No decisions were made," it said. "There will be further meetings between administration officials and Mr. Meany and his associates. The President will participate in the future meetings as appropriate."

Earlier Tuesday, Dunlop met with Meany, AFL-CIO Secretary Treasurer Lane Kirkland, three of Ford's economic and budget advisers and the leaders of four maritime unions.

Behind the boycott is Meany's belief the United States has given too much to the Soviets in the cause of détente. He is demanding two things: a new U.S.-Soviet shipping agreement granting more favors to the Americans and more government control of exports to assure that domestic prices will not be affected adversely.

Ullman Proposes Permanent Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — To avert an abrupt rise in taxes next January, the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee is proposing that Congress make permanent the $7.7 billion in individual tax cuts enacted earlier this year.

The position taken Tuesday by Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., gives impetus to attempts by other Democrats to enact — with or without the administration's approval — new tax cut legislation designed to speed up what otherwise might be a long recovery from the recession.

Some economists say the recovery could abort if petroleum and food prices increase this winter and the tax cut of 1975 is not extended.

Without an extension, taxes will rise automatically Jan. 1. Paychecks would reflect an increase in withholding.

Ullman is also calling for extending for one more year the cut in corporate income taxes and extending through 1977 the increase in the investment tax credit enacted in 1976. Together, they save business $4.8 billion a year.

The administration's position is that it is too early to decide whether the economy needs the stimulus of a renewal of the tax cut. It wants to put off that decision until October.

Ullman offered his proposal in a pamphlet issued by his committee on ideas to be considered when it takes up a tax reform bill in September.

He and 10 liberal members also proposed broadening the so-called minimum tax, the 1969 reform intended to make sure at least some taxes were paid by all, even the beneficiaries of preferential tax treatment. They did not agree on how it should be done.

For individuals Ullman proposed making permanent 1975 tax cuts achieved by: raising the minimum standard deduction from $1,300 to $1,600 and to $1,900 for joint returns; increasing the percentage standard deduction from 15 to 16 percent and the maximum standard deduction from $2,000 to $2,300 for single persons and to $2,600 for joint returns; and giving every taxpayer, taxpayer's spouse and dependent a tax credit of $30. A credit is an amount subtracted from taxes owed.

The 1975 corporate tax cut Ullman would extend through 1976 reduced to 20 percent the tax rate corporations pay on the first $50,000 of profit. Under the old scale, firms paid 22 percent on the first $25,000 of profit and the full 48 percent corporate income tax rate on additional profit.

The investment tax credit was increased from 7 to 10 percent to induce firms to buy new equipment. The credit permits firms to receive a tax refund on 10 percent of the cost of new equipment.

In the administration, only Labor Secretary John Dunlop has spoken out for extending the tax cut another year. William Seidman, assistant to the President for economic affairs, told a White House conference in Milwaukee Monday the question of extending any sort of tax reduction through 1976 will remain under study until October.

"We want to see how the economic situation is," he said.

Third Day of Rioting In Lisbon

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Anti-Communist mobs rampaged across the central town of Leiria today, burning the headquarters of leftist parties and sacking the homes and businesses of their members.

Police said the crowds roamed the streets at will, burning cars and beating up every leftist they encountered in the city's third consecutive day of rioting.

Troops sent to contain the mobs managed to protect the Communist party headquarters but the crowds burst through security lines at the offices of three other leftist parties, sacking the buildings and burning their contents.

The demonstrators also attacked and burned the offices and homes of two leading leftwing attorneys.

Several leftists caught in the center of the city were run down by the crowds and beaten and kicked. Two men were hospitalized with serious injuries and police said many others were treated for less serious wounds.

In Lisbon, military security forces occupied the facilities of the army's Communist-controlled 5th division early today, saying the action was taken in response to "threats of assault" on the facilities.

The operations of the 5th division were suspended by the military's ruling revolutionary council Monday night in an effort to defuse opposition by military moderates to Portugal's left-wing military regime.

The commander of the military security forces, Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, has sided with the moderates in the dispute.

The Communist party ordered its shock troops into the streets of Lisbon today for a mass march in support of embattled Prime Minister Vasco Gonçalves.

The Communist-led United Front called on supporters to rally through Lisbon this evening, shouting out the slogan, "Revolution, yes. Right-wing government, no."

The eight parties in the left-wing coalition announced plans to march from the Cais de Sodre railroad station near Lisbon's docks to the Belem presidential palace in a demonstration "to defend the revolution."
